McINTOSH STEREOPTICON COMPANY

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF HIGH GRADE
LANTERNS, SUITED FOR A VARIETY OF PURPOSES WITH PARTICULAR
REFERENCE TO

Schools and Colleges Secret Societies, Churches and Sabbath Schools Y. M. C. A. and Similar Organizations

ALSO A NICE LINE FOR HOME USE

To those desirous of giving a public or private entertainment we will furnish a complete dissolving outfit, selection of views on any subject in stock, with an experienced operator at a very reasonable rate.

TERMS.

1. Cash in current funds, which may be sent by Registered Letter, Draft, Postal Money Order or Express. Goods sent C. O. D., provided 25 per cent of bill is sent with order; the balance to be collected by the Express Company.
2. All goods will be packed with the greatest care to avoid breakage in transportation, but we cannot be responsible for them after leaving our premises, except under special contract.
3. Any errors in invoice must be reported within ten days from receipt of goods.

READ CAREFULLY.

We would call special attention to our reduced prices. All previous lists cancelled.

For Terms, see page 3.

In re-arranging our catalogue we have thought best to eliminate all special directions therefrom. Directions will accompany instruments, and be furnished upon application.

Slide renting fully explained on page 85.

How to Remit.

By currency in registered letter; by Post Office or Express Money Order; by New York or Chicago Exchange.

How to Order and Have Goods Shipped.

Write plainly your name, express and post office address, giving name of town, county and State; be careful to write your signature legibly. Much trouble arises from a blindly written signature. Always give the full name of article wanted, number of same, and page in Catalogue, also edition of Catalogue. In ordering Slides give subject, name of Slide, page and number. Always be explicit in giving shipping directions, whether by mail, express or freight, and when possible, the express company or railroad route you prefer, stating the day you desire us to ship; we will comply with same, but will not assume the responsibility of safe or prompt delivery. Traveling lecturers and exhibitors should always give us their permanent address and also a list of the towns on their "route" so that we can always reach them by direct mail and avoid the risk and delay of having letters and parcels forwarded. Always allow plenty of time for correspondence to go and come. Remember it takes some time to fill an order after it is received.

Mailing Rates vs. Express Charges.

It is much cheaper to send many small articles by mail than by express. Limit of weight is four pounds. Slides will be mailed at the following prices, which includes box, packing and postage:

1 Plain or Unmounted Slide.....10c.	1 Wood Mounted Slide.....10c.
3c. each for additional Plain Slides.	4c. each for additional Mounted Slides.

For Registered Package, 10c. additional.

INTRODUCTION.

The Magic Lantern has been modified, improved and re-named so that the stereopticon of today bears little resemblance to the crude instrument which excited the wonder of the ignorant and enabled the unscrupulous to play upon their superstitious fears in the ages that have passed away.

The scientific investigator, the educator, the lecturer and he who simply caters to the higher amusement of the public, find in the stereopticon an indispensable aid. In its improved form most delicate investigations into chemical, physical, electrical and pathological phenomena are possible; and what is of most importance, the method of conducting such research, and its immediate results can be shown to an audience as easily as to a single individual. The educator can illustrate in the most effective manner by its aid, Physiology, Botany, Natural History, Chemistry, etc.

The rapid introduction of electricity for general lighting purposes has greatly increased the use of the stereopticon in places where the best results are desired, whereas heretofore the expense prohibited the frequent use of the oxy-hydrogen light.

Schools and Colleges. We have supplied many of them with a complete outfit for using microscope and stereopticon with solar and artificial light. This method of illustrating lectures is very popular with the students, and insures full seats during the hours when this apparatus is employed. Those who have made use of our Heliopticon fitted for both the use of sun and artificial light for purposes of instruction are enthusiastic in its praise.

Microscopists find frequent use for the stereopticon provided with microscope attachment, as it enables them to study many processes on a large field, giving the relation of parts, and economizes time, aside from the convenience of being able to demonstrate to all observers the work done.

Secret Societies find that the interest taken in their initiatory ceremonies is greatly increased by the use of the stereopticon. The instrument is also of great help in making up programmes for "open night" entertainments and can be easily be made to pay for itself in this use.

Y. M. C. A.'s all over the country are fast coming to realize that the stereopticon is an almost indispensable adjunct to their work. It is used a great deal in their large lecture rooms for entertainment purposes and is found to be a great help in the class room work of their night schools.

Insane Asylums and other public institutions where those mentally or physically enfeebled are cared for, find the stereopticon an endless source of interest and benefit to the patients; the mind of the patients can be directed to any subject thought desirable by properly selected pictures.

Parlor Entertainments. The Sciopticon affords a neverfailing source of amusement in the family. Many people who have become expert in amateur photography entertain their friends at home with the products of their "summer outing" in the form of views which they have taken of the objects and places of interest discovered in their trip. These can be so readily transformed into beautiful lantern transparencies that this art has become a fascinating recreation to those willing to take the trouble to acquire the simple but necessary details of the process.

Advertising with Stereopticons has become a popular method of bringing advertisers to the attention of the public. Properly managed, this is lucrative both to the exhibitor and his patrons.

The business card of advertisers being displayed singly and repeatedly while the interest of the observers is sustained by interspersing beautiful views of scenery and comic pictures, makes an impression on the memory which is less likely to be forgotten than when seen in an ordinary printed circular, on a picture card, or in a newspaper column. Amateur photography has done away with the only obstacle hitherto in the way of the success of this business; the cost of reproducing the business card, place of business or samples in the form of a lantern transparency is reduced to a trivial sum, and there need be no delay in doing the work.

It would be difficult to find any apparatus or instrument capable of furnishing such a variety of entertainment and instruction as a good Stereopticon. Late improvements have greatly simplified the methods of producing a brilliant light, with due regard to safety and economy, and all persons interested in the art of Projection are cordially invited to communicate with us in regard to the subject.

A PROFITABLE BUSINESS.

THE question of profit in a well managed Stereopticon Exhibition is one which admits of but one answer. This form of entertainment is exceedingly popular among all classes, and when the proper means are employed to bring it before the public it cannot fail to be highly remunerative.

The outlay required to secure a first-class outfit is less than for any other business which pays so well.

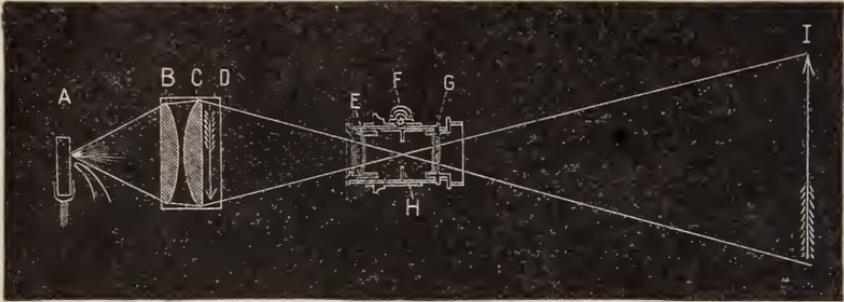

About 75 views are sufficient for an evening's exhibition. If a greater number is used less effort will be required on the part of the lecturer.

There is no difficulty in learning to work an apparatus; any one of ordinary intelligence can learn from the printed directions how to manage an Exhibition successfully. It is not even necessary that a man prepare his own programme or lecture; if he is inexperienced in such work he can obtain illustrated lectures in print all ready to read in connection with the views presented. No heavy labor is demanded, so that persons in delicate health have often succeeded in carrying on the business successfully. It offers an excellent method of paying expenses of travel to such as are compelled to seek change of climate without the necessary means to do so, and at the same time affords light and pleasing employment, which is frequently of no less advantage to the health seeker than the change of location. In almost every locality there is an opening for a man to do a large business in giving exhibitions to Sunday Schools, Academies, Lyceums, Public Audiences, Families, etc.

These are usually conducted on shares when given in churches, and almost everywhere halls can be rented for a percentage of the receipts. The running expenses are very light and the profit large when well advertised.

We are at all times ready to give suggestions or information to those about to engage in this business, and those who can find it convenient to call at our place of business will be shown, in detail, the method of running an exhibition.

OPTICAL PRINCIPLES OF THE PROJECTING LANTERN.

IN THE above diagram we show the essential parts of any projecting lantern. "A" represents the light (which in this particular case is lime light); "B" "C" the condensing lenses, or "condensers," and "E" "G" the projecting lenses, which, together with the entire mounting form the "objective." The remaining part of the lantern, the frame or body, is simply to hold the slide and these three parts in proper position, and render the light and lenses effective. The light from "A" radiates in all directions, although from lime and electric arc light the radiation is principally towards the lenses. As much of it as strikes the condensing lens, "B," is refracted and passed through the second lens, "C;" thence through the transparent slide, which must be inverted, represented by the arrow "D," and brought to a focus between the two combinations of lenses, "E" and "G" of the objective, from which point it diverges in a cone-shaped area to the screen, where the image "I" is formed right side up. The function of the condensing lenses is to collect and condense, or focus the light, which passes through the glass slide into the objective, the office of which is to magnify the slide, or picture, and form an image of it on the screen. The distance the objective is placed from the slide depends upon its focal length and the distance the lantern is used from the screen. The longer its focus and the shorter the range from the screen, the farther from the slide it must be used and the closer, within certain limits, the light must be placed to the condensing lenses.

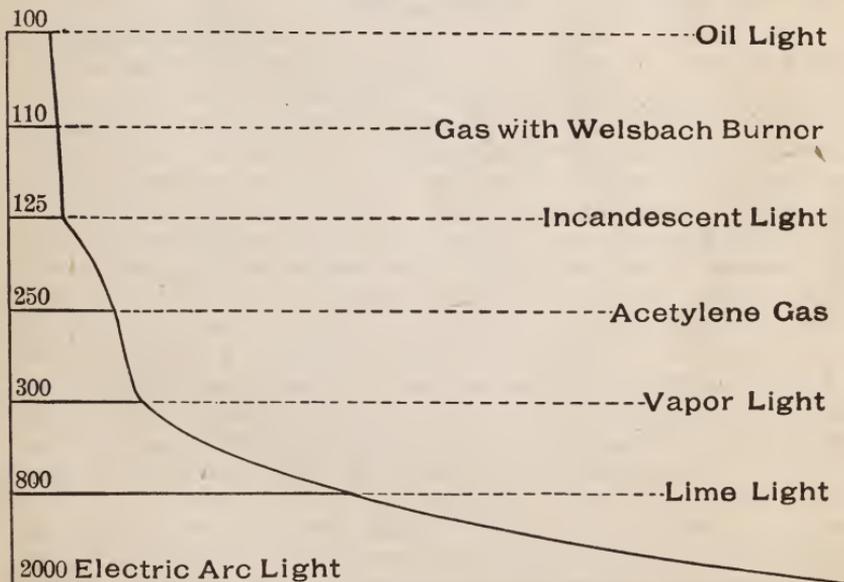

By moving the light closer to the lens, "B," it will converge to a point further from the front lens, "C," which will be the proper position if a long-focus objective is used. By drawing the light back from the lens, "B," it is converged at a point nearer the front lens, "C," which is the proper position if a short-focus objective is used. In either case the focal point should meet the objective at the diaphragm marked "H" in the cut.

The light leaves the objective in the shape of a cone, which can be cut by the screen at any point; the shorter the range, or distance from lens to screen the smaller and brighter the image; the greater the range, the larger and less bright the image. With a given light a picture projected, say 10 feet square, will have four times the illumination that one 20 feet square will have, as there is four times the surface to cover with the same amount of light.

LIGHT FOR PROJECTION.

BRILLIANCY is not the only requisite for a first-class light for projection purposes. A perfect artificial light should come from a point, but as this is practically impossible, it follows that the smaller the area from which the light emanates, the more perfectly the light will focus and the clearer and more sharply defined the picture on the screen will be, the brilliancy remaining the same. There are eight different illuminants used in Lantern work, viz: Oil light; Illuminating Gas with Welsbach Burner; Incandescent Electric Light; Acetylene Gas; Incandescent Vapor (new); Oxy-hydrogen, or Lime Light; Electric Arc and Sunlight.

The above are named in order of their brilliancy, from the lowest to the highest, at the screen, and not considered for general illumination outside the Lantern. Of the seven artificial illuminants, unfortunately but two can be considered as really first-class—the Oxy-hydrogen, or Lime Light, and Electric Arc Light. In order to bring this fact out clearly, we call attention to the following diagram, in which the unbroken lines indicate to the eye the relative difference in available candle power:

We are fully aware that claims for 500 candle power for Acetylene are often made, and that some Oxy-hydrogen jets (in print) will give 2000 or even 2500 candle power, but the best authorities place the limit of Lime Light at about 800 candle power. The brilliancy of Electric Arc Light depends upon the amount of current consumed, and is variously estimated at from 2000 to 3000 candle power.

is much more powerful than any artificial light, and as it costs nothing the advantages of its use are obvious. If sunlight were always available nothing more would be needed, but as projection work in many departments is more conveniently carried on at night, it becomes necessary to seek a substitute.

In the Heliopticon (see cut) we have an instrument which can be used for both sun and artificial light, with but slight changes in its adjustment and the addition of special parts.

ELECTRIC ARC LIGHT

ranks next to sunlight in brilliancy. It is particularly adapted for projection purposes because of its intense brilliancy and condensed form. Its usage is limited to such places where current from a dynamo can be obtained, and such locations, fortunately, are increasing rapidly every day. Current of low voltage, or pressure, is recommended (such as is used in incandescent light systems) so that the element of danger is entirely eliminated. The expense of operating is merely nominal, being but a few cents an hour. The electric light is rapidly increasing in favor, and for general projection purposes stands close to the head in the list of illuminants. A picture 30 feet in diameter, or larger, can be satisfactorily projected with this light.

LIME LIGHT

(Otherwise known as Calcium, Oxy-hydrogen, Drummond, and Ether-oxygen)

stands second to electric light, and is produced by forcing a blow-pipe flame of hydrogen (or house gas) and oxygen upon a stick of unslacked lime. Ether vapor and oxygen is used in place of hydrogen with equally good results. The heat from burning hydrogen, the very essence of flame, fanned by oxygen, the pure supporter of combustion, is, next to the heat of the electric arc, the hottest flame known. There are but few substances that will endure this intense heat without burning or melting, and lime is one of them. Even this refractory substance must be made in such a shape that it can be easily moved or turned to present a new surface to the flame, as it becomes pitted in a short time, and a diminution of the light is the result. Lime light is the best for general projection purposes for one who travels about, but, unfortunately, it is the most expensive to operate, costing on the average from 75c. to $1.00 per hour, and also requires the most cumbersome apparatus. The gases can be purchased by the cubic foot from calcium light supply houses (found in nearly all large cities) the gas being pumped by steam power into steel cylinders, at a pressure of 225 pounds per square inch, two cylinders, one of oxygen and one of hydrogen being required; or, one can make oxygen gas only from chemicals, with a gas-making outfit, and use ether vapor in an instrument called a Saturator, to take the place of hydrogen, thus becoming independent of any gas-supplying company, and avoiding vexatious delays in shipping cylinders. From 5 to 7 feet is the average consumption of gas per hour. A perfectly satisfactory 30-foot picture can be made with lime light.

INCANDESCENT VAPOR LIGHT

is new in the projection field and ranks with acetylene gas as a light much superior to oil, gas with Welsbach, or incandescent electric. Gasolene is vaporized in a special generator and used to heat a mantle of heavy material, chemically-prepared, to an intense brilliancy, giving four or five times as much light as the regular Welsbach burner. The advantages are economy in operation, ease of transportation and manipulation, and safety, while the cost for apparatus is low. A clear 10 or 12 foot picture can be made with this light.

ACETYLENE GAS LIGHT

is widely known as an intensely white light through its popular use in bicycle lamps. The gas is easily produced in a special generator by submerging in water a manufactured product called calcic carbide. The gas is used for lantern purposes with a special kind of jet, made up of four burners, each producing what is termed a floating flame, to avoid accumulation of carbon on the tips. Four flames, one back of the other, are necessary to obtain the full brilliancy of the light. Acetylene, though it stands with the new incandescent vapor, next to lime light in brilliancy, is far below it as a comparison will show. Acetylene gas has its place and is popular for projection, but its candle power has been greatly exaggerated in print. The difficulty of not being able to concentrate the light is one drawback for lantern use. A clear 10 foot picture can be made.

INCANDESCENT LIGHT

with the use of special projecting lamp, with coiled carbon filament, gives much better result on the screen than that produced with a much larger lamp with filament more loosely coiled, which we formerly used. For home entertainment, where electricity is used for illumination, it fills a long-felt want, being quickly made available by simply inserting a plug attached to a flexible wire in the socket where an incandescent lamp bulb is removed. It is clean and cheap to run and satisfactory for pictures 8 to 10 feet in diameter.

WELSBACH GAS LIGHT

is cleaner than the oil lamp and recommended for home use where gas and not electricity is available. The mantles, when once burned, are very delicate, but are comparatively cheap and will last for some time if lantern is carefully handled. An 8 to 10 foot picture is recommended.

OIL LIGHT,

the last on the list, has the advantage of being very cheap to run, easy to operate and can be easily transported from place to place. In order to concentrate the light as much as possible the edges of the wicks are presented to the condensing lenses, and the brilliancy of the light is greatly increased by the use of a long chimney which produces a forced draught. A satisfactory 8 to 10 foot picture can be made.

Illustrations and further description of apparatus for producing the different kinds of light found later in the catalogue.

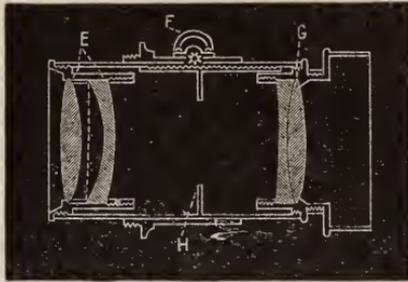

THE CONDENSERS.

CONDENSING lenses are usually made of crown glass of greenish color; flint glass condensers would be preferable where the greatest perfection is required, as they would be more colorless, but, on the other hand, be very expensive. Many suppose that a lens having fine bubbles through it should be condemned as imperfect, but unless the bubbles are close to the plano side of the front condenser and large enough to show a dark spot on the screen when picture is in focus, they do no harm, as their only effect is to imperceptibly cut down the illumination. Theoretically, any angle of light may be taken up by the condensers and a large condensing lens would be the best to use, but, practically, it is limited to an angle between 65 and 70 degrees, and any light beyond that angle is lost by reflection from the surface of the lens, owing to the high angle of incidence, and the edge of the picture would be less illuminated than the center. In the case of two condensing lenses of different focal lengths being used in the lens cell, the thinnest, or one of longest focus, should be nearest the slide.

Many forms and sizes of condensing lenses have been tried in the Optical Lantern, but most authorities agree that two plano-convex lenses, $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter, mounted with their convex sides nearly touching, is the best form for artificial light when everything is considered. In the use of condensing lenses for projecting negatives for photo-enlargement, or transparencies in regular lantern work, the lenses should be a little larger in diameter than the diagonal measurement of the negative or slide, to obtain the best results. Light rays from the sun are parallel, and not divergent, as with artificial light, hence it is necessary to use but one condensing lens, with the convex side next the light, and with a slide placed close to it, to obtain full illumination.

THE OBJECTIVE.

IN HIGH-CLASS Lanterns the simple plano, or double-convex lens is replaced by the double achromatic objective, which is made up of four lenses, or two combinations. The lens nearest the light is a crown-glass, double convex lens, of unequal curvature, known as a "crossed" lens, and is placed in the cell with the greatest curvature towards the front. Next in order is a flint, concavo-convex lens, with convex side also toward the front. The two lenses are held apart by a thin brass ring, and secured in a cell by a threaded ring. This cell, with the two lenses, is known as the back combination, "E," and screws into the rear of the objective mounting. The front combination, "G," when removed from the cell, appears like a single lens, but is, in reality, composed of two lenses, a flint plano-concave lens, cemented with transparent balsam to a crown glass double convex lens with convex side used towards the front. This front combination is screwed into the front of the objective mounting. The brass plate, "H," with circular opening in the center, is known as the "diaphragm," and is to prevent marginal rays of light from coming to a focus at a different point from those rays nearer the center of the lenses. The long brass tube with lenses attached telescopes into a jacket, in which it is made to move freely back and forth, by a rack and pinion (marked "F" in the cut) for convenience in focusing. The size of the projected picture depends upon the focal length of the objective, irrespective of its size, and the distance it is used from the screen. The shorter the focus the larger the picture, at the same distance from the screen. Almost any size picture can be made with any objective by using it at different distances from the screen, but with the complete objective but one size image can be made at a certain distance. By removing the rear combination and using the objective with front combination only we increase its focal length and can make a smaller picture at the same range as when complete. The picture, however, is not quite as perfect but is very good and the expedient is very convenient at times. As a rule, the smaller the lens the more powerful or shorter the focus it has. A large lens is not a powerful one, as far as magnification is concerned, as many suppose.

THE LANTERN BODY.

The lantern body or frame is for the purpose of holding the different parts in the correct position in order to render the light and lenses effective. The support for the light must be made so that the illuminant can be moved forward or backward to attain the proper position in focusing the light. The condensers should be so mounted that they can be easily removed for cleaning or replacing in case of breakage. In some of our lanterns ("Chicago Model," "Biunial" and "Imperial") the condensing lens cell is provided with a drop lid and the lenses are supported by metal tracks, from which they can be rolled very easily. In other lanterns ("Society Sciopticon" and "Exhibitor's") the lenses are mounted in a round metal box easily taken apart. The old method of mounting by "spinning" them into metal rings is a source of great annoyance when necessary to replace a lens, as the thin metal is made hard and brittle by the process, and is very likely to break off when turned up to release the lens.

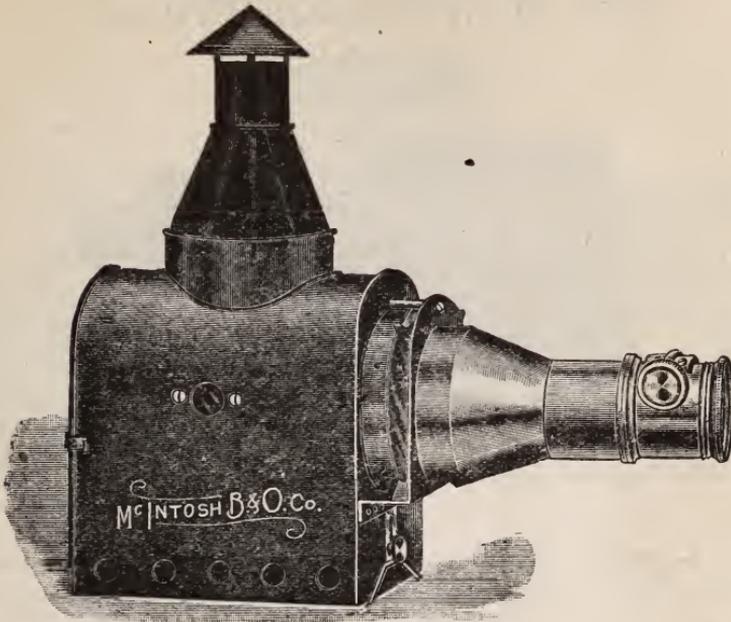

The slide support should be large enough to hold all forms of slide-carriers and mechanical slides. The objective support must be easily moved back and forth to enable the slide to be properly focused, and be made so that it can easily be adapted to different sizes of lenses. The whole frame must be strong and rigid and hold the light, condensers, slide and objectives in perfect optical line. In some makes of lanterns now on the market there is too much adjustability to their various parts, and, as a consequence, they are complicated and troublesome to adjust except to the person who has considerable mechanical skill. The lantern body or frame should be put together in a thorough, workman-like manner, should be durable and neat and attractive in appearance.

THE SCREEN.

The white surface that receives the projected picture is called the screen. It may be a white finished wall, or a white cloth properly mounted. The back of a wall map, if clean and white, may be used. Whatever form of screen is selected must be perfectly smooth, and its surface must be parallel with the front of the objective. It may be of any size, but for convenience should be not more than a foot or two larger in diameter than the largest size disk to be employed. Exhibitors who wish to use both large and small halls find it convenient to carry two screens of different sizes. Those we manufacture are of the best quality of heavy bleached cotton; they have a firm border of thick, non-elastic webbing, stitched entirely around the edge, with brass rings about one inch in diameter at intervals of two feet. Screw eyes of sufficient size to hold the guy ropes are fastened in the floor and ceiling, and the screen is drawn smooth and free from wrinkles. Very careful adjustment is required when the microscope attachment is employed. The four corners of the screen must be equi-distant from the objective. A convenient method of ascertaining a correct position is to tie a long cord to the objective, and measure the distance to each corner of the screen.

If the center of the screen is on a higher level than the lantern, the front of the latter must be elevated until the disk of light will fall on the center of the screen. Sometimes it is necessary to tilt the upper part of the screen forward to make its center parallel with the Lantern Lens.

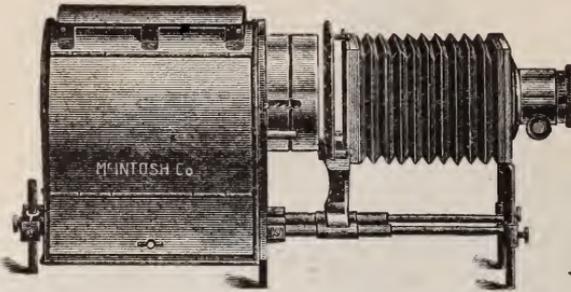

THE SOCIETY SCIOPTICON.

PRICE.....$15.00

This little Lantern has been designed more especially for home use; for parlor entertainments; for those who cannot afford the more expensive Lanterns. The Condensing Lenses used in this Lantern are $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter, so that the standard size of Lantern slides can be used. The Objective or Projecting Lens is achromatic. Heretofore these low-priced Lanterns have been mere toys, and would only take the cheap toy slides, which are much smaller in size, and of inferior quality. This Sciopticon has the most powerful Two-Wick Lamp manufactured, and is provided with a Reflector, which materially increases the illuminating power of the lamp; it burns with a brilliancy hitherto unsurpassed in a low-priced Oil Lantern; it is the best cheap Lantern in the market, and must be seen and tried to be appreciated; it is made in a durable and substantial manner, and every part being riveted it will bear any amount of rough usage. This Lantern is one of the lowest priced and most complete made, occupying a space of only $15 \times 5\frac{1}{2} \times 14$ inches, and weighing but $6\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. At the price quoted is furnished a neat traveling case.

THE MONITOR SCIOPTICON.

PRICE, without illuminant..... $20.00

Slide-carrier, special $\frac{1}{4}$ size objective and carrying case included in price given.

We offer the Monitor Sciopticon as the lowest-priced lantern we carry which is adapted to all illuminants with the exception of oil light. The main supporting plate, slide-stage and objective support are made of japanned iron; the condenser cell, leg rods, set screws, etc., of brass, nickel-plated. The body is made of planished steel and is easily detached from the supporting plate, permitting the use of illuminants requiring a different shaped body or hood. The lantern fulcrums on the lower edge of the main plate, and can be tilted at a considerable angle, either up or down, and held in position by the extension legs and set screws. The condensing lenses are of the same size and quality as used in our higher-priced instruments. The objective support has an opening large enough for one-half size lens, and by means of adapting rings and tubes, any objective but the standard 4-4 can be used.

The special objective priced with this instrument and the "Society" Lantern is listed at $3.50.

THE MONITOR SCIOPTICON WITH HELIOS VAPOR LAMP.

Price, complete in two canvas cases, of same size,$35.00

The Lantern.

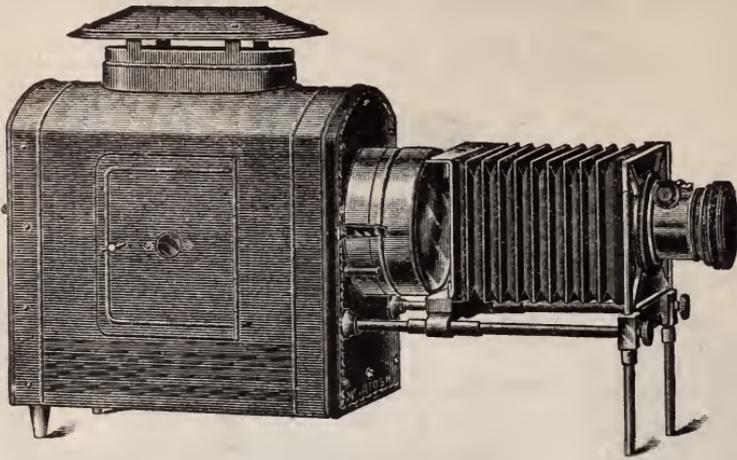

- Has Standard Condensing Lenses.
- Rack and Pinion Objective.
- Long Bellows Draw.
- New Steel Slide-Stage.
- Is Simple in Construction.
- Neat in appearance.
- Easily Transported.
- Low in Price.
- Packed in Neat Case.

The Lamp.

- Is Small in Size.
- Light in Weight.
- Ornamental in Appearance.
- Clean and Safe to Handle.
- Powerful in Illumination.
- Economical to Operate.
- Has no Odor.
- Low in Price.
- Packed in Neat Case.

The above combination, with its many points of excellence, must appeal to the exhibitor or public lecturer whose work is in small and medium-size audience rooms, such as are found in country churches and school houses, and who is obliged to be satisfied with a less brilliant light than calcium or oxy-hydrogen, not only because of the attendant expense of operating this best of portable Lantern illuminants, but also the constant bother of looking after the gas supply, whether it is made before each lecture or purchased from a gas-supplying company in tanks. To the amateur photographer who has passed the "snap-shot" picture stage, and who desires to see some of his fine negatives made into lantern slides and projected at home for the admiration of his friends, this outfit also appeals. The small, but growing secret society will find this instrument just what it is looking for to build up the membership and keep the boys together, by the added interest it gives on meeting night. The receipts of one open lodge entertainment, if worked up properly and advertised, will pay for the Lantern. We rent slides on almost any subject, at reasonable rates.

THE McINTOSH SCIOPTICON.

Price, without illuminant of any kind $25.00

Slide-carrier, carrying case and one-quarter size French objective included in price given.

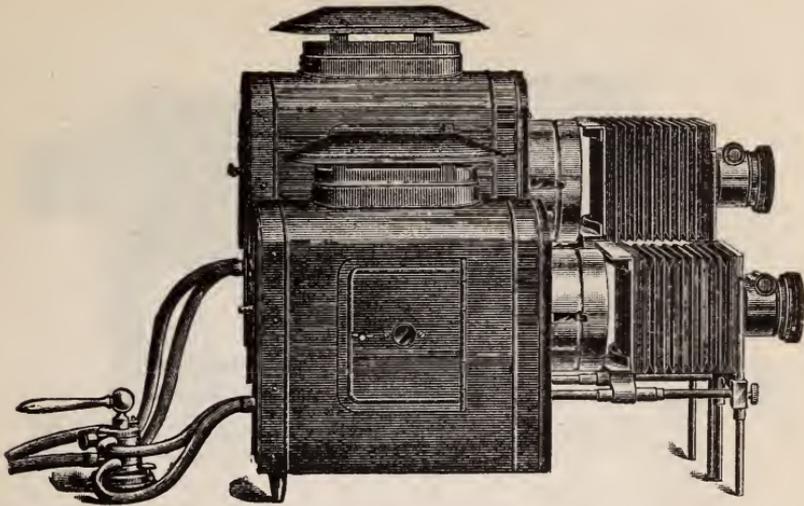

Any one of the seven different illuminants can be used interchangeably in this lantern.

The body is of Russia iron; the cell holding the condensing lenses is of nickel-plated brass and of new design, easily removed from lantern body and parts separated for convenience in cleaning or replacing lenses. The slide-stage permits of wood mounted slides, also plain slides, in "Panorama" carrier being entered from the side, one following the other without exposing a white screen. The bellows front is of a new material; has long draw to accommodate long-focus objectives, and is of dark-red color, contrasting richly with the japanned and nickeled work. The brass front is threaded for one-half size objective; the one-quarter size French objective furnished with lantern at above price is supplied with an adapting ring. All sizes of objectives (except four-fours) can be adapted to the Sciopticon. The lantern can be tilted upward, by means of the adjustable front leg rods. The cowl top is not furnished when only oil light is used.

RADIANTS FOR LANTERNS.

Hand-feed Arc Lamp, with rheostat, flexible cable and fuse block . . .	$14.00
Oxy-hydrogen Jet, No. 1, with rubber hose	7.00
Helios Vapor Lamp, complete.	15.00
Quadruple Acetylene Jet, and crowfoot, without generator	7.00
Incandescent Electric Lamp, with flexible wire.	5.00
Welsbach Burner and Rubber Hose.	5.00
Sunlight Oil Lamp.	10.00

McINTOSH DISSOLVING SCIOPTICON.

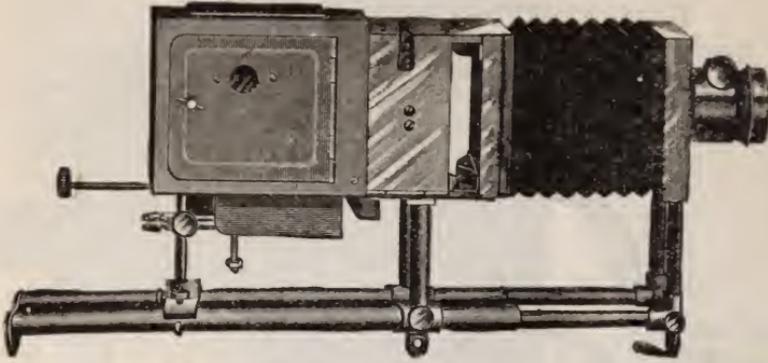

PRICE per pair with Jets, Dissolving Key and Rubber Hose.....$76.00
 Per pair with Hand Feed Arc Lamps, Dissolving Shutter
 Rheostats, Wires and Switches..... 83.50

Slide Carriers, Carrying Cases and $\frac{1}{4}$ size French Objectives included in prices given.

With a pair of Sciopticons placed in stepped form as above shown, with a dissolving Key placed back of them, very excellent dissolving can be accomplished; either the oxy-hydrogen or oxy-ether light may be used, the dissolver working equally well with either. If one cannot afford to purchase the entire dissolving outfit at one time, this scheme affords a very desirable outfit; since one can purchase a single lantern, and from careful advertising, and judicious management, can soon make enough money to purchase the additional portion of the dissolving outfit, which would be one more lantern, and the dissolving key. All of the lenses used in this lantern are of the same grade, as in the more expensive instruments; full sized condensers $4\frac{1}{2}$ in. in diameter are used; the objective or magnifying lens is achromatic, and is of first class quality. The McIntosh Sciopticon is one of our most popular instruments, and is more fully described on opposite page.

THE IMPERIAL SCIOPTICON.

With Steel Body.

PRICE, without Illuminant.....	$35.00
“ with No. 3 Jet or Burner.....	45.00
“ with Quadruple Burner for Acetylene.....	42.00
“ with Incandescent Lamp (50 c. p.) with support and cord.....	40.00
“ with Hand Feed Arc Lamp (90°) Rheostat, etc.....	50.00

‡-size objective, slide carrier and carrying case, included at the prices quoted.

The Imperial Sciopticon, or Single Imperial, when fitted with a steel body, as above illustrated, will accommodate the Oxy-Hydrogen Jet No. 3, Quadruple Acetylene Burner, or Incandescent Electric Lamp.

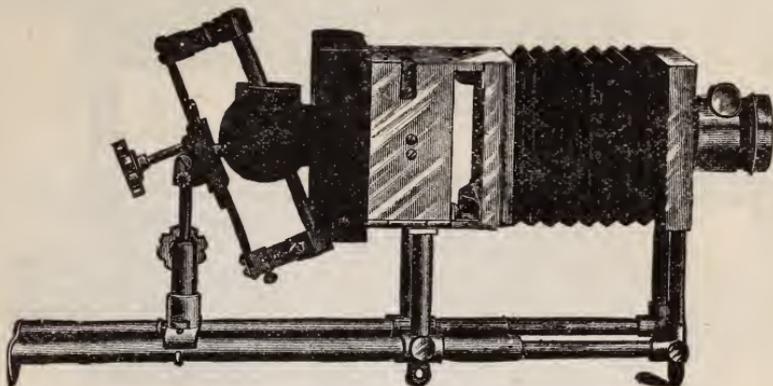

One of the many advantages of purchasing the Single Imperial is that it can be converted into a Double or Dissolving Stereopticon at any time by purchasing a duplicate instrument with the connecting parts, and either a Dissolving Key or a Dissolving Shutter, depending upon which illuminant is to be used.

The general description of the Double Imperial, found on the next succeeding pages, applies to the Single Imperial as well.

We can fit the single instrument with a large, in place of a small body, if preferred, at the same price, but the size of the body will interfere with its being connected to another instrument to make a dissolving one, unless the small body is substituted.

THE IMPERIAL SCIOPTICON.

With Short Shield.

PRICE, without Illuminant.....	$35.00
“ with Hand Feed Arc Lamp, (upright form), Rheostat, etc.....	50.00
“ with Helios Vapor Lamp Outfit.....	50.00
“ with Welsbach Burner and Rubber Tubing.....	40.00
“ Set of Parts to connect two single instruments.....	2.00
‡-size objective, slide carrier and carrying case, included at the prices quoted.

The Imperial Sciopticon or Single Imperial, fitted with short shield, will accommodate the upright form of Hand Feed Arc Lamp, the Helios Vapor Lamp or the Welsbach Burner.

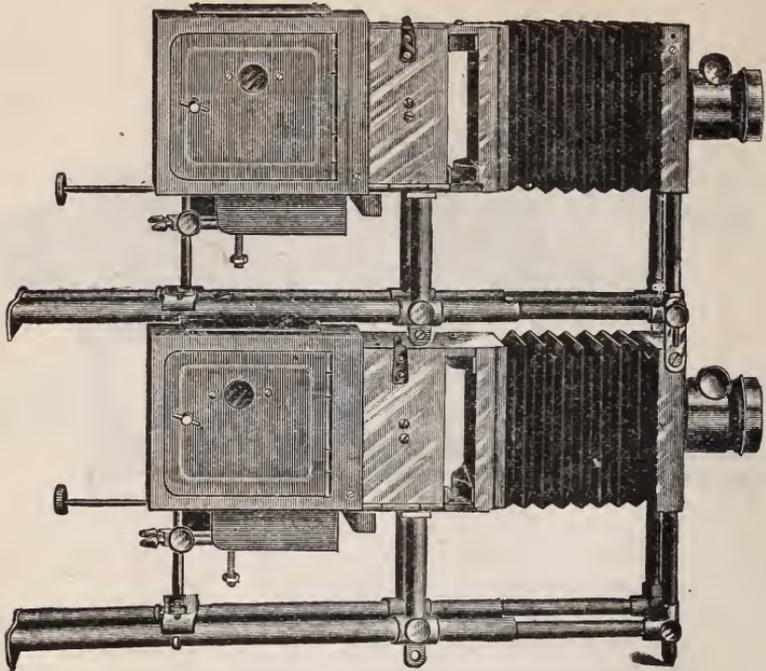

A ball hood and brass shield are furnished with the lantern when the Hand Feed Arc Lamp is used, a steel chimney with funnel shield with the Helios Vapor Lamp, and a special steel jacket with top and funnel shield when Welsbach burner is selected.

A duplicate single instrument purchased with connecting parts, can be easily attached at any time to make a Dissolving Stereopticon.

Either the short shield or the steel body can be easily and quickly removed by loosening two screws and substituting one for the other when change of illuminants makes it necessary.

THE IMPERIAL STEREOPTICON.

With Lime Light.

“ fitted with attachments for both lime light and electric light, complete.....	137.00
“ Single Imperial, lime jet, $\frac{1}{4}$ size French objective, rubber tubing and slide-carrier, complete in case	45.00

The Imperial Stereopticon is our latest production, and has been designed to meet the requirements of our customers who prefer the bellows front to the draw-tube style of instrument. The frame is made of special telescoped, nickel-plated tubing, which gives strength, lightness and fine appearance to the lantern.

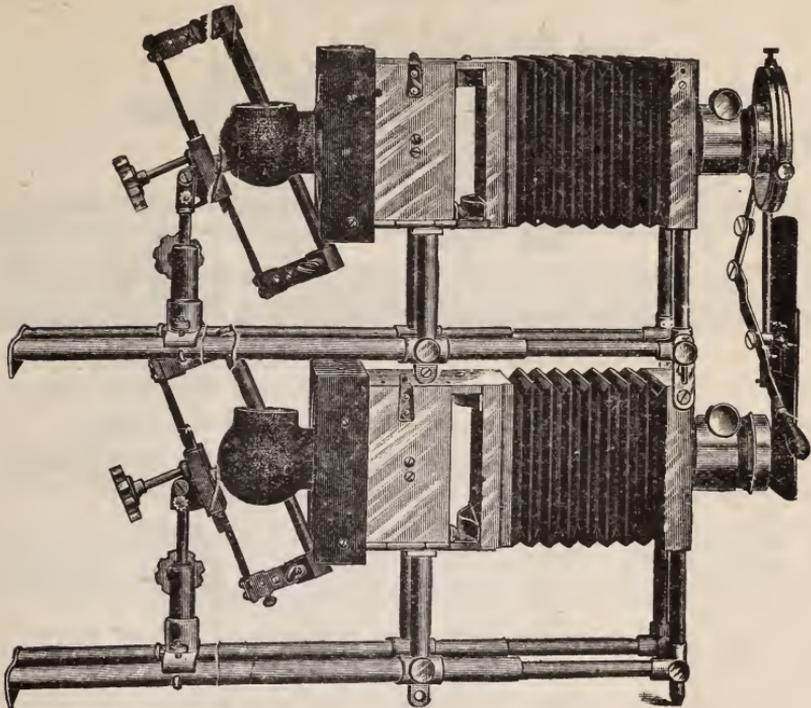

The condensing lens cells are of our new design, which enables the lenses to be instantly withdrawn for cleaning or replacing, and, together with the slide cell, is made of nickel-plated brass.

Objectives of almost any size and focal length can be used, as the front frames carrying the bellows and lens boards draw out and support the objectives, rendering draw-tubes unnecessary.

The upper and lower instruments are made exactly alike and parts are interchangeable. Two single instruments can quickly be converted into a double one by procuring the necessary connecting parts, the only tool necessary to make the change being a screw-driver. All adjustment of the jets in focusing and centering the light, and raising and turning the limes can be made with the doors of the iron bodies closed. In case a change of illuminant is desired, the lime-light bodies can be quickly unhooked from the condensing lens cells, by removing two screws, after loosening two thumb nuts which holds them fast, and the short shields for electric light substituted.

THE IMPERIAL STEREOPTICON.

With Electric Light.

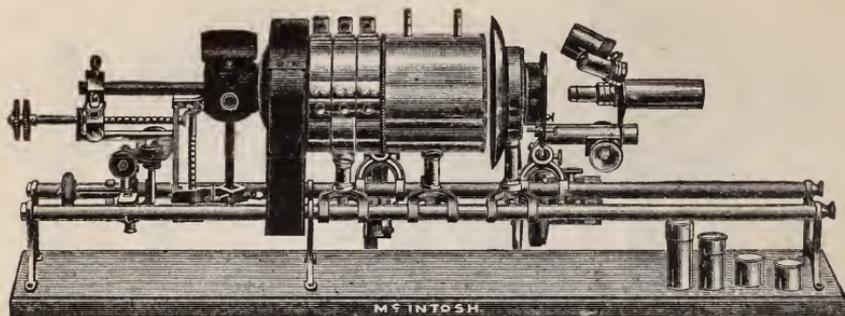

- PRICE, as above, with $\frac{1}{4}$ size French objectives, Dissolving Shutter, rheostats, flexible wire, switches, fuse-block and slide carriers, complete in case. \$100.00
- “ fitted with attachments for both electric and lime light complete. 137.00
- “ Single Imperial, with Hand-Feed Arc Lamp, $\frac{1}{4}$ size French objective, rheostat, flexible wire, fuse-block and slide carrier, complete in case. 50.00

The Imperial Stereopticon, fitted for using both lime and electric light, we consider the best instrument we make, and the large demand we are having for it substantiates our statement. The vertical registration of the picture projected by the upper Lantern, so that it will coincide on the screen with that projected by the lower one, is easily accomplished by first loosening the side clamping screws and then turning to the left the large thumb screw situated in front between the Lanterns, which allows the upper instrument to tilt forward on the hinge-joint and form a slight angle with the lower one. As soon as registration is accomplished the clamping screws are made tight and all is held firm. The slight movement necessary for side registration is made by adjusting the slide-stops.

When operating the Dissolving Electric Light Stereopticon, both upper and lower Lamps are kept burning at their full brilliancy, and the dissolving effect is accomplished by a new form of Shutter (shown in cut) which is readily fitted to the hood of the upper Objective. Any effect which can be accomplished by the Dissolving Key with the oxy-hydrogen light can be obtained by the Dissolving Shutter if the Shutter-blade is properly adjusted. Many of our customers prefer the Shutter to Key for dissolving. The Shutter is included in the prices given above.

IMPROVED COLLEGE BENCH LANTERN

FOR PRICES SEE PAGE 30.

Our Improved College Bench Lantern is the result of careful study as to the varied requirements of a lantern used as an educational medium.

Not only must such a lantern be capable of projecting ordinary lantern slides or transparencies, but must be quickly and easily adapted for scientific projection covering experiments in acoustics, optics, microscopy, physics or chemistry.

This lantern has for its foundation long nickel plated brass tubes, rigidly held a few inches apart and above a base board by three supporting brackets, forming a track or bench, which holds a series of interchangeable sliding supports, or bridge pieces on which may be secured the various parts necessary for the particular kind of projection work in hand.

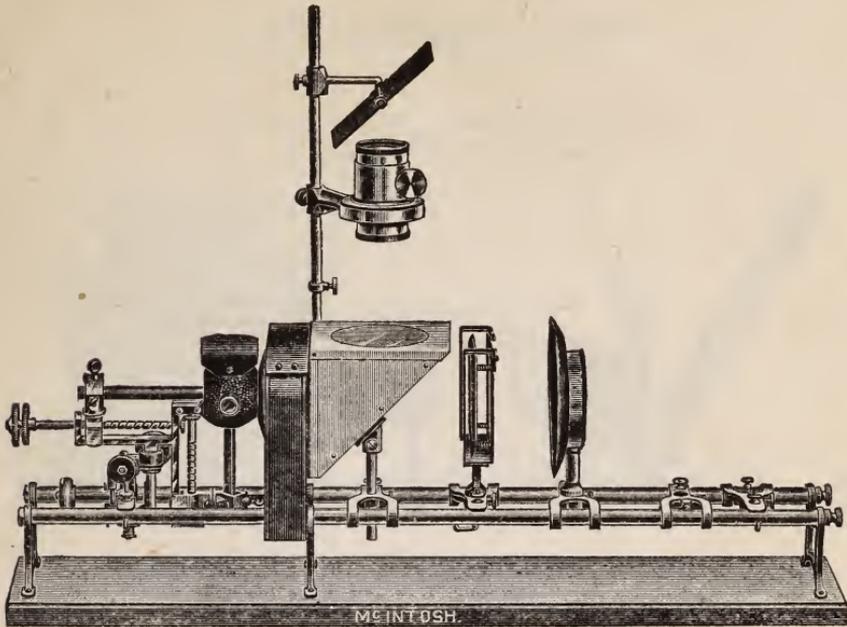

The sliding Y shaped bridge pieces are so constructed that they can be either securely locked to the bench, or swung over out of the way on one or the other of the track tubes as desired. This hinge-like movement of the supports is of great convenience, since it enables one to change quickly from one kind of projection work to another.

The first cut illustrates the lantern with the cooling tank and projection microscope in position ready for use, but should the teacher desire to project lantern slides, the supports carrying the cooling tank and projection microscope are swung over towards the operator, and the supports containing the slide stage and the regular objective (both partially shown in the cut) brought forward into optical line with the condensing lenses and illuminant.

All sorts of apparatus suitable for projection can be used on the bridge pieces, such as slot and diaphragm attachments, prism support, mirrors, lenses, chemical tanks, polariscopes and crystal stages.

The second cut shows the vertical attachment in position, which is so useful in many experiments in which the object projected must be kept in a horizontal position.

IMPROVED COLLEGE BENCH LANTERN

FOR PRICES SEE PAGE 30.

A lantern having a condensing lens of fixed focal length is incapable of producing the best results when used with objectives having a great variation in focal length: for instance, an objective of long focus used with lantern slides, and a high power microscope objective of extreme short focus; to make it possible for the operator to easily and quickly substitute one condensing lens for another, even after the lenses have become heated, we have adopted a new method of mounting, each lens being contained in a separate brass ring so arranged that it can be easily slipped into place and fastened securely in but a few seconds of time.

The advantages of this construction are

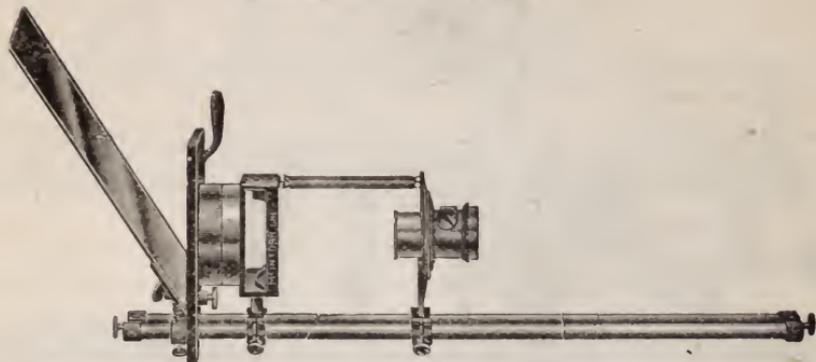

1st—That the equivalent focus of the condensing lens system can be changed at will by substituting one lens for another of different focal length, thus giving the operator power to use the combination of lenses which exactly suits the condition under which they are to be used.

2nd—The distance between the condensing lenses can be varied at will, which is an important feature, especially when using high power microscope objectives, since a slight variation in the distance of separation will often increase the illumination on the screen.

3rd—By our method of mounting, the extra condensing lens can be reversed, secured to a support and used to advantage as a projection lens in some experiments. The metal parts of the instrument are nearly all made of an aluminum alloy, which greatly reduces the weight of the entire instrument. The different accessories sold to use with this instrument are all interchangeable in the Y supports.

THE HELIOPTICON.

Arranged for Sunlight.

Price, arranged for sunlight only, as above, including $\frac{1}{4}$ -size objective, one $4\frac{1}{2}$ -inch condensing lens and slide carrier.....\$25 00

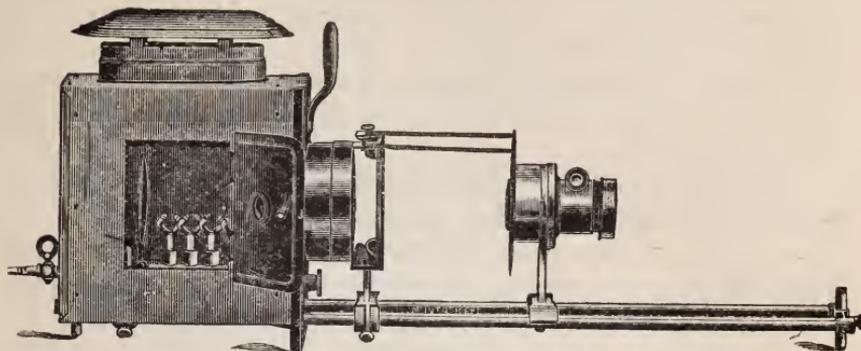

To change the above instrument for any artificial light it is necessary to add a Russia iron body, another $4\frac{1}{2}$ -inch condensing lens and two leg rods with clamping screws.

Price, as enumerated..... 7 00

The Heliopticon is a projecting instrument which can be used with sunlight or with artificial illuminants, by the addition of special parts and changes in its adjustment. The instrument arranged for sunlight is shown in the above cut, and consists of a square metal plate in which is fitted a large flat ring, upon which is fastened a long mirror, by special patent hinge, capable of adjustment to any angle with the plate by a large screw, which passes through the lower portion of the ring. The ring also carries a condensing lens, in cell, and a metal handle, by which the ring and its attachments are turned in a vertical plane. The combination of movements enables the mirror to be adjusted to reflect a beam of sunlight in one direction and keeps it in position with but slight attention. Two parallel tubes of seamless steel pierce the metal plate below the ring and are held firmly by clamping screws. This tube track forms a light and rigid bench for the slide cell and objective support, and is of sufficient length for use as an optical bench, upon which can be supported various Lantern attachments used in demonstrating experiments in physics and chemistry. The slide cell and objective hood are connected by spiral springs which form an adjustable support for a small black cloth which can be used to confine the light, and admirably takes the place of bellows or draw-tube.

Heliopticon arranged for artificial light only—

With Hand-Feed Arc Lamp, rheostat, switch, fuse-block and 15 feet flexible wire cable	44.00
With Calcium Light jet, No. 1, support and 8 feet rubber hose.....	37.00
With Vapor light, complete.....	45.00
With Acetylene Burner (see cut above) without generator	37.00
With Special Incandescent Electric Lamp, 10 feet flexible wire cable and attaching plug.....	35.00
With Welsbach Burner and 10 feet rubber hose.....	35.00

Not arranged for Oil Lamp.

The Heliopticon can quickly be changed to a Lantern, for use on table, by replacing the mirror (held in place by hinge-pin) with a Russia-iron body which hooks over iron plate, and by pushing the long rod through the plate to give support to electric lamp. The addition of a leg rod at each end of the tube-bench completes the change, the Lantern then tilting on the edge of the metal plate as a fulcrum, and held rigid by the adjustment of front and rear legs.

OBJECT TEACHING.

Many children cannot retain ideas which they receive through the medium of books, but when they are accompanied with illustrations the mind easily comprehends the description and retains it.

A want has long been felt by teachers and scholars for some way to illustrate without costly charts and maps, which occupy so much space and are so easily destroyed. This want has been fully met by the McIntosh Heliopticon.

Lessons in drawing may be given by copies prepared upon glass by the teacher, and the light of the room may be sufficient to permit the pupils to work.

Geography, usually so dry and uninteresting to pupils, may be made not only instructive but amusing, by accompanying the text book lessons on the various countries with well selected views of the prominent points of interest, the inhabitants, their customs, occupations, architecture, manufactures, and products of the soil.

Natural history may be illustrated by views of birds, rats, mice, squirrels, frogs, toads, live fishes in tanks with transparent sides. The classifications, resemblances and differences existing in the animal kingdom may be made plain by life-like representations of the various objects of study, more conveniently even than when access can be had to well stocked museums, which are unfortunately too rare to supply the needs of the mass of pupils engaged in studying these subjects.

The demand of instructors for illustrations on these subjects have led the manufacturers of slides to provide a large assortment, which represent almost all the phenomena that are required for school room or college purposes. Special slides to illustrate additional points can be made to order, and glass cells furnished at small cost, which will enable the instructor to prepare, as needed, specimens of the vegetable and insect world, as they exist in his immediate vicinity.

Geological specimens such as crystals of quartz, feldspar, mica, pyrites and other minerals, may be shown as well as diagrams or maps, of various strata, formations, etc.

Botanical specimens, especially the structure of plants, the germs and minute forms of vegetable life, offer an infinite variety of objects suitable for projection. It is impossible to do more than to refer briefly to a few of the applications of Projection Apparatus, the field of its usefulness extends to every branch of science.

With our Heliopticon it is possible to magnify an object one thousand diameters or a million areas, and still have it so well lighted that a large audience can see it plainly. A view of any given locality may be displayed, and the flora or fauna be projected upon it. The microscopic organisms can be shown on a large field, which affords opportunity to study their actual life, surrounded by their natural media.

List of Articles suitable for Projection. Hairs of animals, held between two pieces of glass; down from wings of moths and butterflies, (these adhere to glass without pressure); scales of fishes; eyes, legs, wings of flies; whole insects; stings of bees and wasps; antennæ of moths and mosquitoes; fibres of cotton, wool, silk, linen, ferns, mosses, lichens, leaves of trees; thin sections of wood; small flowers, stamens, pistils, pollen, seeds; mites in cheese; vinegar and paste eels; butterflies, beetles; animalcules in stagnant water; crystallization of camphor, indigo; sulphate of copper; diatoms; mould, and most microscopic preparations. Suitable objects may be found everywhere; in stagnant pools, in vases where flowers have remained a day or two; an infusion of hay; in most fermented liquids. The larva of a mosquito is a lively and amusing thing when magnified five or six feet in length. Histological research may be facilitated, and its results exhibited on a large scale.

Miscellaneous Subjects that may be Illustrated by Projection. Porosity, cohesion, divisibility of matter, capillarity; crystallization, as in ice flowers, lead, tin or silver trees; gravitation; acoustics; reflection and refraction of light; chromatic aberration; rainbow, mirage; dispersion; Newton's rings; recombination of white light; absorption bands; spectrum analysis; fluorescence; polarization of light; diffraction; formation of clouds; maximum density of water: galvanometer, calorescence, magnetism, diamagnetism, electricity; decomposition of water; heating by the electric current; acid and alkaline reactions; precipitation; equilibrium of liquids; artesian diver, hydrometer; diffusion of gases; fountain in vacuo; siphon; pyrometer; Torricelli's experiment; Mariotte's law; the manometer; Sprengel's air pump; influence of pressure on boiling point; conductivity of solids; convection; thermo-pile; umbra and penumbra; action of magnets; attraction and repulsion from electrical excitation.

By means of diagrams and photographs the most recent inventions in the arts can be illustrated and explained. The apparatus we have described is adapted to daily use in all schools and educational institutions, and we confidently claim that it will, when intelligently employed, arouse greater interest, and afford a more valuable and varied means of illustration than many times its cost invested in other apparatus designed for object teaching.

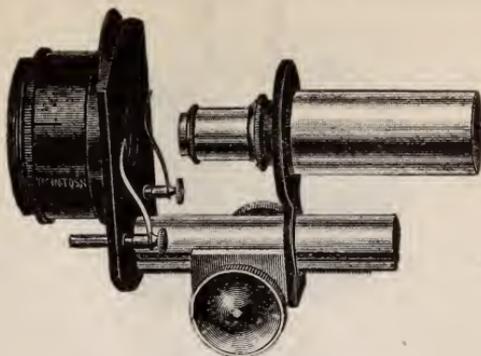

Price List of College Bench Lantern.

- Price Improved College Bench Lantern without illuminant.....$35.00
Consisting of baseboard with bench, Y support for illuminant, steel light shield, one pair of regular focus condensing lenses separately mounted, one mounting without lens (used as a light shield) special supporting frame for condensing lenses, steel slide-stage, slide-carrier, $\frac{1}{4}$ size objective with double adapting ring support, three Y bridge pieces for the above parts and wooden case.
- Price Improved College Bench Lantern with Hand Feed Arc Lamp illuminant.
For lantern slide projection only.....$50.00
Consisting of all parts enumerated above (under heading College Bench Lantern without illuminant) also Hand Feed Arc Lamp (either 90° or upright form), ball hood, rheostat, 15 feet of cable cord, knife switch and fuse block.
- Price Improved College Bench Lantern with Hand Feed Arc Lamp illuminant, arranged for projecting both Lantern and Microscopical slides, and quickly interchangeable.....$95.00
Consisting of all parts enumerated above, also projecting microscope, $\frac{3}{4}$ inch microscope objective, double adapting ring support and Y bridge piece, cooling tank and Y bridge piece.
- Price Improved College Bench Lantern with Hand Feed Arc Lamp (90° preferred) fitted for projecting both Lantern and Microscopical slides, also with list of attachments and accessories as follows :—
 Fine adjustment support for lamp, special objective for microscope (covering $1\frac{1}{4}$ -inch field) $\frac{1}{3}$ microscope objective, triple nose piece for microscope, substage condensing lens, micrometer stage, two amplifying lenses (medium and high power), vertical attachment with condensing lenses, adjustable slot attachment, prism and supporting stand, pencil ray attachment with lens and diaphragm, glass tank, two extra condensing lenses of different focal lengths separately mounted, and a 10 foot opaque screen on spring roller, complete.....\$200.00

“ Special Objective, to cover large field.....	10.00

The improved Projecting Microscope is designed to meet the requirements of those who desire a really good instrument at a low price. The rack and pinion are cut on the diagonal, which effectually prevents any lost motion between them, thus giving that smooth, steady movement which is so necessary in fine focusing.

The cylindrical portion back of the stage is made up of two parts, the inner sleeve carrying the threaded flange by which the instrument is supported; the outer sleeve is attached directly to the slide stage and is provided with two pointed set-screws which enter a groove around the inner sleeve. By this construction the rack bar can be turned around to any desired position after the instrument is screwed fast to the lantern front, then, by tightening the set screws in the outer flange, the microscope is held firmly in position. The objective support has Society Screw which adapts it to most objectives of American and foreign make.

The shield around the tube prevents stray light from falling on the screen, but it is not so large as to prevent the use of a Double Nose Piece. The front tube can be quickly removed so that wide angle or high power objective can be used without limiting the area of illumination on the screen. The instrument is provided with a revolving diaphragm and sleeve support for Sub-stage Condensing Lens necessary for high power work.

COOLING TANK.

Price, Cooling Tank for Projection Microscope, as illustrated.....	$6.00
“ Special Support when used with our lanterns.....	1.00
“ Special stand (same as used for prism support).....	.75
“ Extra Glass Discs for tanks, each.....	.10

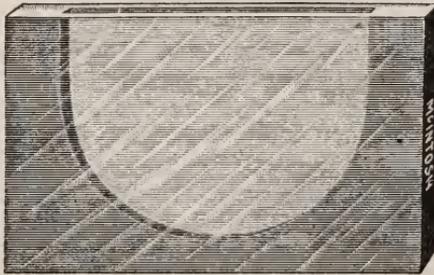

The cooling tank as illustrated is a seamless brass cylinder with glass ends, which are firmly held in place against especially made round soft rubber rings by brass bezel rings, which screw into the ends of the cylinder. This construction permits of the glass ends being easily removed and cleaned when necessary.

The tank holds about a quart of water and measures 3 inches between the glass ends. It is polished and nickel plated.

A Cooling tank is a necessity when a Projection Microscope is used. The distilled water (alum solution not necessary) with which it is intended to be filled, absorbing much of the heat of the focused beam of light, lessening the danger of injury to the specimen under examination.

A few drops of formaline will prevent the water from becoming stagnant.

GLASS CELL.

------------	--------

This Cell, measuring 4 inches in height and 7 inches in length (size of a wood mounted slide), will fit into the slide stage of any lantern using standard size slides. It can be used dry to hold insects, or filled with water showing live specimens from river and pond, such as small fish, leeches, water worms, etc., projected on the screen with a regular lantern objective. It is very useful in illustrating experiments in physics and chemistry, such as capillary action, specific gravity of liquids, electrolysis of water, precipitation, chemical action, test reaction, bleaching process, and antiseptic operations.

The cell is all glass, and is unaffected with acid, alkali or alcohol.

BOTTLE PRISM

And Stand.

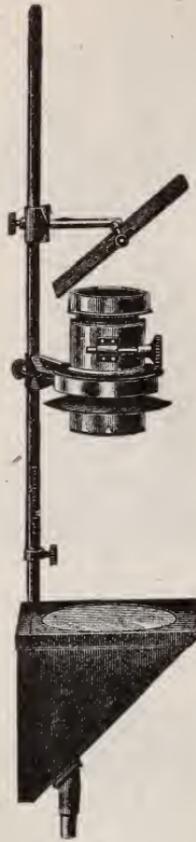

PRICE, Bottle Prism, sides and bottom ground flat.....	$4.00
“ Adjustable Stand for same.....	.75

The Hollow or Bottle Prism when filled with redistilled carbon di-sulphide forms an excellent medium for showing the analysis of white light into its component colors.

Carbon di-sulphide has a greater dispersive power than glass, hence, the projected spectrum is made longer than if solid glass prism is used.

The prism is adjusted on the stand in front of the objective after the image of the slot has been sharply focused.

McINTOSH VERTICAL ATTACHMENT.

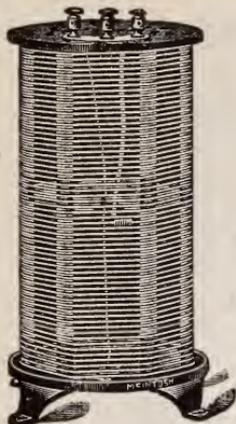

Price, with condensers and $\frac{1}{4}$ -size objective.....	\$20 00
“ without condensers and $\frac{1}{4}$ -size objective.....	10 00

This attachment can be used on the Sciopticon and Imperial Lanterns with artificial illuminants, and can also be used on the Heliopticon for solar projection, which for microscopic projection affords a method superior to any hitherto used.

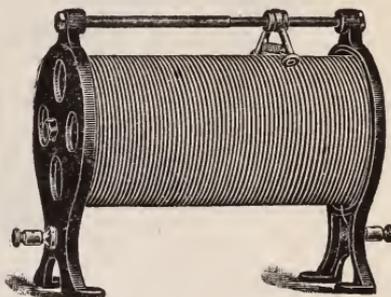

The condensing lenses are of first quality glass, plano-convex, $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter, medium focus, and especially adapted to this line of work. This apparatus is designed expressly for the illustration and exhibition of the various phenomena attending the scientific experiments relating to heat, light, sound, electricity, magnetism, cohesive figures, and crystallization. No prisms are used, but the finest thin German mirror glass, which materially lessens the cost of the apparatus, and avoids double reflection to a large extent.

McINTOSH RHEOSTATS.

Used with Hand Feed Arc Lamps.

Vertical Form

Socket Rheostat

PRICE,	Vertical form (like cut), 12 to 15 amperes capacity, for currents from 52 to 115 volts pressure.....	$ 5.00
“	Vertical form (like cut, but higher), 12 to 15 amperes capacity for currents from 120 to 125 volts pressure.....	6.00
“	Horizontal form (with regulating slide), 15 amperes and less, for currents from 90 to 220 volts pressure.....	10.00
“	Socket Rheostat (like cut, with regulating slide), 5 amperes and less, for currents from 90 to 115 volts pressure.....	7.00

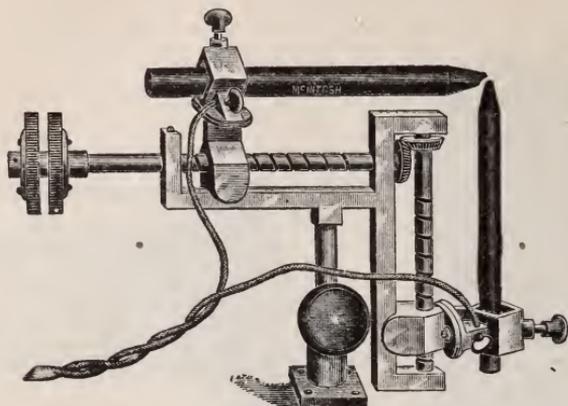

The McIntosh up-right form of Hand Feed Arc Lamp can be connected to any incandescent light socket by means of an attachment plug connected to a length of flexible wire cord, provided a Socket Rheostat is connected in electrical circuit in place of the regular style, and small carbons (5/16 inch in diameter) are used in the lamp.

The amount of light available with this apparatus is not to be compared, however, with that obtained by the use of our regular style Rheostat, since a comparatively small amount of current can be drawn with safety from a socket, while a much larger quantity can be used when connection is made with the larger wires of the system.

The comparative values of the two methods of use stand 600 and 2400 candle power respectively. Both direct and alternating currents can be used with a Socket Rheostat, but better results are obtained with the direct system. We do not recommend its use on currents of 52 volts pressure.

HAND-FEED ARC LAMP.

90° or Right Angle Form.

PRICE, Lamp only, with square base or support as illustrated.....$ 8.00
 " Complete with Rheostat, cords, switch and fuse block square base, or supporting stem for any of our Lanterns as desired..... 14.00

The 90° or Right Angle Arc Lamp has one advantage over the regular up-right form, since the Arc can be kept nearer in line with the center of the lenses for a greater length of time without re-adjusting the carbons in the holders, than with the up-right form, since the horizontal carbon is placed in line with the optical axis and is fed directly towards the center of the condensing lens, the point of the carbon being the source of light.

We offer the above as the most simple and effective Right Angle Lamp on the market. It is very small (size of frame, $4\frac{7}{8}$ inches long by $4\frac{7}{8}$ inches high) and still has a $2\frac{3}{4}$ inch feed to each carbon, The carbons can each be fed separately or together, depending on how one grasps the feeding wheels. Operated on direct current a $\frac{3}{8}$ inch solid vertical and a $\frac{1}{2}$ inch cored horizontal carbon are necessary; if upon the alternating current both carbons should be $\frac{1}{2}$ inch cored. On direct current this Lamp will give more light, using the same amount of current, than the tilted form, but it requires a little more attention in feeding.

It is necessary to have at least $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches from the center of the condensing lens to the bottom of the lantern body in order to be able to center the 90° Lamp.

FINE ADJUSTING SUPPORT.

Shown with 90° Lamp Attached

PRICE, of Support, for either up-right or 90° Lamp, (shaded portion of cut only).....	$5.00
“ “ 90° Lamp with ball hood and its attachments.....	9.00
“ “ up-right Lamp with similar ball hood for either direct or alternating current, as desired	9.00

The cut shows the attachment in position, clamped to a Y support (which forms a part of our Imperial lantern) and holding a 90° Lamp fitted with a ball shield having a flange in front, heat deflecting plate on top, and an image tube at the side. By the use of this Support the Arc is kept in perfect alignment with the center of the lenses by means of two screws, one (at the back) moving the entire Lamp up and down, the other (at the side) giving a lateral swinging motion. This Support is particularly recommended where a projecting microscope or moving picture machine is used. When the Lamp is in operation a perfect reduced inverted image of the carbon points is seen on the ground mica disc at the end of the image tube (see cut), indicating to the operator their exact position and how to feed the carbons to produce the best results on the screen.

THE McINTOSH HAND-FEED ARC LAMP.

Adjusted for Direct Current.

A perfect light for lantern work should be cheap, easy to operate, of intense brilliancy, and should come from a point. Electric light used with carbons is the most perfect artificial light for the purpose, because it more nearly fulfills these conditions. After years of experience and a large amount of experimentation, we believe we have perfected the most satisfactory and easily adjusted Hand-Feed Arc Lamp now on the market to be used on the incandescent electric circuit.

Our electric lamps are designed to meet all requirements where an incandescent electric light current can be obtained and have the following points of excellence:

They are simple and compact.

Weigh only $1\frac{3}{4}$ pounds including support.

Perfectly adjustable for both direct and alternating currents.

Feed enables six inches of carbon to be used without readjustment and with but slight waste.

Quick separating movement of carbon clamps for striking arc or renewing carbons.

Perfect electrical contact for both upper and lower carbons, preventing waste of current in heat.

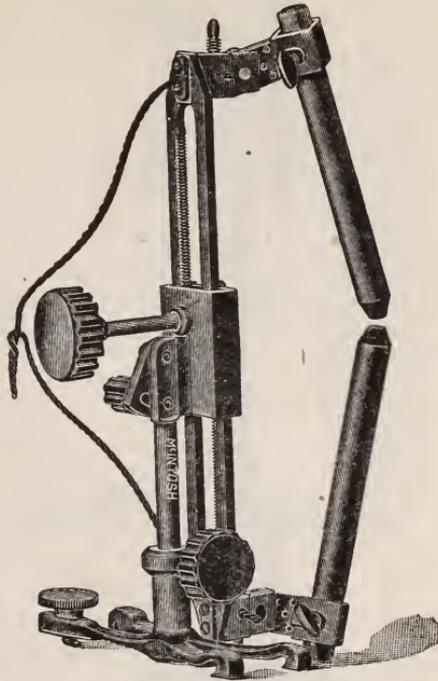

All parts necessary to handle are kept cool by the use of nonconducting material.

Gives from 2,000 to 3,000 candle power with a consumption of from 10 to 15 Amperes of current.

Requires less attention to operate than calcium light at much less cost and three or four times the brilliancy.

THE McINTOSH HAND-FEED ARC LAMP.

Adjusted for Alternating Current.

- Price of McIntosh Hand-feed Arc Lamp only, for use on either Direct or Alternating Current..... $8.00
- Price of above, with adjustable wire Rheostat, 15 feet flexible wire Cable, Knife-switch, and Fuse-block..... 14.00

There are two distinct systems of electric lighting in common use, viz:—the high pressure (commonly 2,000 volts), known as the “Arc” system, and the low pressure (generally 110 volts or less) or “Incandescent” system. Each may use the “Direct” or the “Alternating” current. The Hand-feed Arc Lamp can be used on either system or either current, but we recommend the use of the Incandescent system with Direct current whenever obtainable. The Lamp consumes about 15 amperes of current, hence it cannot be attached by means of a cord plug to a socket from which an incandescent lamp has been removed, but must be connected with a large supply wire, most easily accessible at what is known as the “fuse box,” always found in any building where incandescent light is used. The Lamp does not require constant attention, or “feeding” while in operation, as one might suppose, for the results on the screen are practically the same whether the arc is $\frac{1}{8}$ or $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch long. If formed at the shortest distance, the Lamp will burn without attention for four or five minutes, when a very slight movement of the handle at the back of Lamp is necessary to move the carbons closer together, to shorten the arc, which has increased in length by the burning away of the carbons.

Full directions accompany each lamp.

Direct or alternating current can be used requiring but slight alternation in the set of the lamp and attachment of the reflector, hence it is necessary to state whether lamp is wanted for direct or alternating current.

The above outfit is especially designed for theatrical work, photo-engraving, blue print making, etc. The cylindrical reflector or shield (lined with asbestos) is pierced by the feeding rod of the lamp so that the feeding knob is operated from the back of the reflector; by this construction the shield effectually cuts off stray light from the back of the lamp.

Provision is made for tilting, raising and lowering the lamp, and swinging horizontally.

The base is of steel, drop forged, and gives a firm support for the lamp without unnecessary weight.

ELECTRICAL LENS BOX, OR CHASER.

PRICE, with hand feed lamp, color disc, adjustable rheostat, cord and switch..... $25.00

To project a powerful beam of light, of small or large diameter, either white or colored for tableaux, lodge work or stage effects, furnished with socket swivel so that light can be easily and quickly thrown in any direction, and held there by means of clamp screw. The metal color disc is made in sections so that it is very convenient to replace the colored gelatine mediums. The light can be instantly cut off, if desired, by a metal shutter, which is interposed between the disc and the lens. The size of the projected beam of light is regulated by drawing the lamp back and forth on the supporting rods. A tripod stand sufficiently heavy for rigidity takes the place of the heavy, cumbersome floor stand.

Adjustable Jet or Burner No. 1.

PRICE.....$6 00

This Jet No. 1 has no stopcocks and is designed for use with gas used from cylinders only, or can be used with gas bags or for the oxy-ether light, when used with Dissolver No.2, which has stopcocks for establishing the equilibrium of gases.

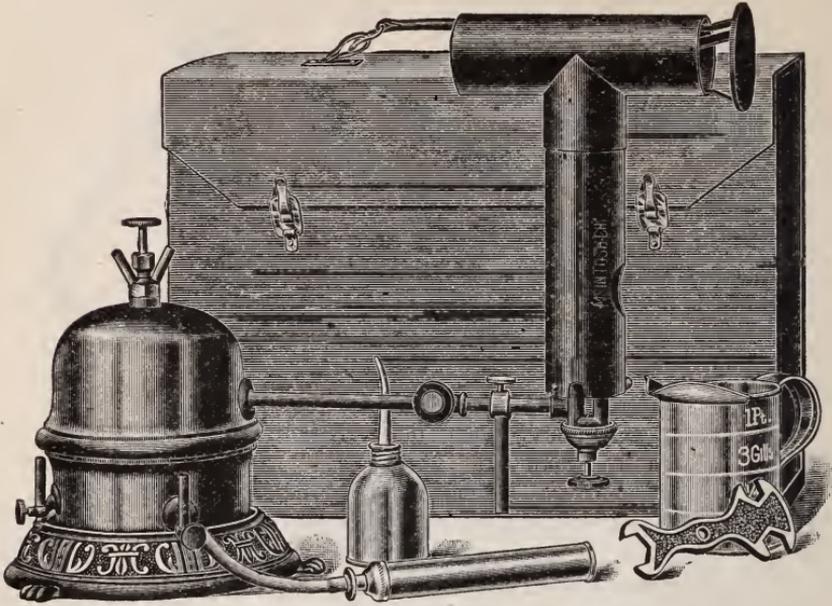

Adjustable Jet or Burner No. 2.

PRICE.....$8 00

This Jet No. 2 has stopcocks, and can be used with cylinders or gas bags, or with the Ether-Oxygen Lime Light without alteration.

THE HELIOS VAPOR LAMP.

Price, complete, including gasoline tank, burner with asbestos-lined chimney, air-pump, alcohol can, wrench, measuring cup for gasoline and two mantles, all complete in neat canvas carrying case, (total weight 11 lbs.) $15.00
 Extra mantles, per dozen, 1.50 net.
 Smaller quantities, each,15 net.

The Helios Vapor Lamp is small in size, light in weight, ornamental in appearance, clean, and perfectly safe to handle, has no odor, is very economical to operate, low in price and is three times as powerful as the best oil lamp. It will project a good, clear lantern slide picture from 10 to 12 feet in diameter. The Vapor Lamp can be used with all our single lanterns, with the exception of the "Society" Sciopticon, but is not adapted to dissolving Lanterns. When used with our lanterns having large metal bodies, with oblong cowl tops, the cowl is dispensed with and the upper, or horizontal portion only of the chimney projects through the opening, and thus arranged the heat is effectually carried off and stray light prevented from reaching the screen. When burner is to be used in lantern body as described, the chimney is made as illustrated above, but when used with lanterns having short light shields back of the condensing lenses—such as the College Bench or the single "Imperial,"—or when used with "Monitor" Sciopticon, without body, the chimney is made with funnel shield around the light opening.

In ordering state which style is desired, with or without funnel shield on chimney.

DESCRIPTION OF THE HELIOS VAPOR LAMP.

The Helios Vapor Lamp consists of a copper tank, oval in shape, with an iron supporting base, both finished in antique copper. From the side of the tank projects a tube 8 inches long, supporting the burner, which is, at the same time the gas generator. Inside the chimney, supported over the burner by a wire, is a special mantle, differing from the well-known Welsbach gas burner only in having an extra heavy coating of the light-giving oxide. The burner tube, after piercing the side of the tank, is bent downward so that the open end is near the bottom. In operation the tank is half filled (one and one-half pints only) with ordinary stove gasoline, by unscrewing the filling plug on top, which also contains the air valve. The space above the gasoline is filled with compressed air, by means of the air-pump, in the same manner as a bicycle tire is inflated. A small amount of alcohol is put into the small brass cup immediately under the chimney, by means of the oil can, and the alcohol ignited. When entirely consumed the burner is heated sufficiently so that when the gasoline is allowed to flow into it, by opening the gasoline valve, gas will form and burn, when ignited, the same as ordinary gas, but as the heat of gasoline gas under pressure and mixed with air is more intense, the mantle emits about three times as much light as when used with common gas at ordinary pressure. One pumping of air is sufficient for nearly three hours' use. After once being properly started the lamp needs practically no attention. The mantle having been once ignited is very delicate, and, although it can be used for a number of times, if the lamp is carefully put away, without jarring, it will not stand shipment without breaking. The cost of the mantle, although very small, is practically the only expense, as two or three cents worth of gasoline will run the lamp for two hours or more. The mantles, contained in neat cartons, can be carried anywhere before ignition without danger of breakage. If the operator should find at any time the supply of mantles exhausted, he can buy one of any make commonly used and proceed with the entertainment. No stock of chemicals need be carried, as in the case where acetylene is used, as gasoline can be purchased at almost any grocery or drug store, and as its cost amounts to almost nothing, there is no object in purchasing in quantities. The apparatus is extremely simple and as safe and easy to operate as an ordinary gasoline stove. The light from the Helios Vapor Lamp stands next to calcium in brilliancy, but cannot be spoken of as a rival except for use in small audience rooms, when its cheapness and convenience will be greatly appreciated by the lecturer and exhibitor.

Full printed instructions will be furnished with each lamp.

ACETYLENE AS AN ILLUMINANT.

Acetylene was discovered by the English chemist, Edmund Davy, in 1836, and introduced to the notice of the British Association. At that time calcic carbide, the material from which Acetylene is made, was a laboratory curiosity. In 1893 Thos. L. Wilson discovered a method of making carbide in commercial quantities by mixing finely-ground coke (about 40 per cent.) and lime (about 60 per cent.) and fusing the mixture by means of an electric furnace, a chemical union of the calcium and carbon resulting. Each pound of carbide will produce from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 cubic feet of gas by simply immersing the material in water. Lime and water remain in the Generator after the gas has been exhausted. Five feet of acetylene is equal in illuminating value to fifty-five feet of ordinary city gas. Acetylene is but little lighter than air and has a distinct odor. At first it was learned that owing to the richness of acetylene in carbon it was difficult to supply sufficient air to the flame to ensure perfect combustion, and in consequence the burners would become clogged with carbon. The difficulty has since been overcome by making them upon the Bunsen Burner principle, a small jet of gas drawing in the air around it, producing a mixture of air and gas before reaching the point of combustion. When used with suitable tips it burns with a beautiful, steady, pure, white flame, without odor or smoke. Pure Acetylene will not explode, but when mixed with air in proper proportions forms an explosive mixture, as does every illuminating gas. Acetylene is as safe to use as ordinary city gas. In no instance has there been an accident with it which could not have occurred with common city gas under same conditions.

Acetylene used with our Quadruple Burner (described elsewhere) forms an excellent illuminant for projection purposes, and, although it does not compare in brilliancy with lime or electric light, it, together with vapor light, has the advantage of cheapness and portability over either of the high-power illuminants. A clear 10 or 12 ft. picture can be made with this radiant. It is not sufficiently powerful to produce a satisfactory motion picture except for home entertainment. Two pounds of carbide, costing but twenty cents, will generate gas sufficient for two and one-half hours' use with Quadruple Burner.

The ACETYJUR is a Generator of what is known as the "Carbide to Water" type; in other words, crushed carbide, one-fourth inch or smaller, is dropped automatically in small quantities, as needed, from an ingeniously constructed hopper into comparatively a large amount of water, a method of generation which prevents an overheating of the gas and a consequent formation of tar-like impurities which lower the brilliancy and clog the burners. The Acetyjur is a thoroughly practical Generator for projection purposes, because it is small and compact, simple in construction, durable and easily transported; because it will generate gas sufficient to supply a quadruple burner for a period of two and one-half hours and maintain an even pressure automatically; because it will deliver gas to the jets cool and dry; because it can be used intermittently with intervals of several hours until the charge is exhausted, without some of the gas escaping or water overflowing the tank by the accumulation of gas made by after-generation; because it is easily charged and cleaned; perfectly safe to use and reasonable in price. Although the Acetyjur is small in size a 10-pound stock can of carbide can be conveniently packed inside, an advantage readily appreciated by the traveling lecturer or exhibitor.

QUADRUPLE ACETYLENE BURNER.

PRICE, with crowfoot, or plate base, as desired.....$7.00

The Quadruple Acetylene Jet is made up of four burners, each consuming three-fourths of a foot of gas. Each burner has two tips, so placed that when used the two jets of gas issuing therefrom impinge on each other at an angle producing a small, flat flame of intense brilliancy, which appears to float above the burner, thereby preventing almost entirely the deposit of soot at the tip which was formerly a great drawback to the use of acetylene. The four burners are placed close together and set so as to present their flames diagonally to the surface of the lens, for the purpose of condensing the light into as small an area as possible, which is very necessary in a good lantern illuminant. The reflector is of correct curvature to give the best results on the screen. In place of base, as illustrated, a crowfoot to fit our Lantern, or a plate base which can be screwed to a base-board or soldered to a metal tray to fit almost any make of Lantern, will be furnished as desired. Rubber hose for connecting Burner and Generator will be furnished with complete outfit.

ACETYLENE

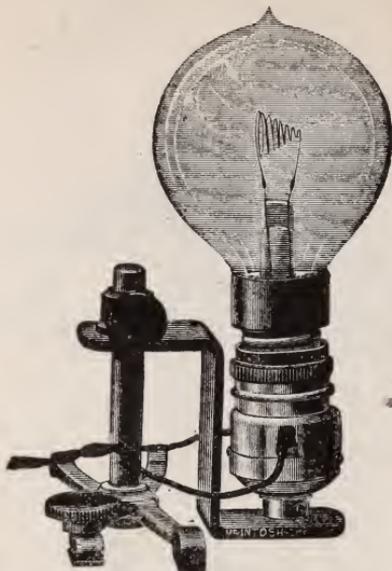

Used with Table Lamp.

PRICE, with Burner, Shade, Shadowless-Holder and rubber tubing, complete..... $3.00

The Acetyjur, used with the above Table Lamp, supplies the most perfect light for evening reading, sewing, study, experimental, artistic or any other work requiring accuracy. The Burner consumes but $\frac{3}{4}$ of a foot of gas per hour, yet the light can be compared in illuminating power to that produced by a No. 2 Rochester Lamp, and is much whiter in color, most nearly approaching sunlight in quality. The cost of using, comparing the illuminating value, is about the same as city gas of good quality at \$1.00 per thousand cubic feet. The flame is so small in size that it generates but little heat, and vitiates but little air compared with oil lamps with large wicks. Acetylene shows colors in their natural hues, hence it is an ideal light to use in painting or fancy work. The chemical or actinic value of acetylene is high, making it most excellent for the printing of Lantern slides or photographic paper. Our customers who use the Acetyjur for projection will readily see the advantage of using the same Generator for other purposes.

The above cut represents our new Stereopticon Focusing Lamp, specially made for Stereopticon purposes. The carbon filament is in the shape of a conical spiral, which concentrates the light and gives much better results in the lantern than lamp of much higher candle power, but with light less concentrated. The lamp bulb is $3\frac{1}{8}$ inches in diameter, and, as illustrated, is fitted with crowfoot for Sciopticon Lantern. A special support, with plate base, which can be screwed to a board or riveted to metal tray of any Lantern, will be furnished at the same price in place of crowfoot, when ordered. The Lamp consumes but 2 amperes at 110 volts pressure, and can be used without rheostat, in any socket where any standard lamp is removed. It is clean and very convenient for home and secret society use where great brilliancy of picture is not required. It is not intended for the professional lecturer. It will make a satisfactory picture up to 10 ft. square.

In ordering be sure and state if for 52, 104 or 110 volt circuit, and, if Edison, Thompson-Houston or Westinghouse attaching plug is wanted, and if crowfoot or plate-support is desired.

The above radiant consists of a cone, or mantle, made of a special kind of netting which is treated with chemicals (principally Oxide of Thorium) and capable of giving off a great amount of light when heated by a special form of Bunsen burner. The light produced is quite a little stronger than the best oil lamp. When house gas is available and electricity is not, it is recommended as an exceedingly convenient light for home entertainment. The chief objection to its use is that the mantles are very fragile after having been ignited and will not stand a sudden jar. If lantern is carefully handled, however, they will last for a long time, and are not expensive. Much depends upon the proper regulation of gas and air valves to obtain the best result. The gas is regulated by small lever, marked "A" in the cut; the air supply by turning the milled collar immediately over it.

The Sun-Light Lamp is the most powerful lamp ever manufactured for lantern slide projection. The open space beneath the body of the lantern affords a large air chamber to which fresh air has free access, while the open space about the chimney permits an extra draught in addition to that furnished by the chimney itself. We have expended hundreds and hundreds of dollars in our endeavor to bring before the public an oil lantern that was satisfactory. We have succeeded, and at last it is an established fact. Especial attention is called to the excellent ventilation whereby perfect combustion is secured and an accumulation of heat prevented. It is impossible, with reasonable care in first lighting up, to cause cracking of the condensers from heat, the ventilation being arranged to draw the column of hot air back or away from them. This lamp burns with a brilliancy hitherto unsurpassed; it is easily filled, trimmed, and kept in order. The chimney is made of metal throughout; immediately in front of, and also behind the light, there is an opening for the light to pass to the condenser and reflector. These openings are covered with plates of the highest grade of thin annealed glass of peculiar shape, manufactured expressly for this purpose. This glass is so thin that the amount of light obstructed by it is imperceptible; it is tough, and practically unbreakable except by sheer carelessness. Each glass is easily removed and is entirely independent of the other; the body of the lamp being attached to the fount with a hinge, renders each and every part easily accessible. The reflector is made after the most approved pattern, and is finely nickel-plated. It is attached to the outside of the chimney, and is protected from the heat and smoke by glass plates intervening between it and the flame. It is all metal except the windows. No glass chimney or isinglass to get scratched, marred, or broken.

THE ETHER SATURATOR.

PRICE, with brass T-tube, 2 short lengths rubber hose and filling funnel	$ 10.00
“ Extra cores, each.50

The McIntosh-Ives Ether Saturator, after years of use in the hands of hundreds of our customers, has established itself, beyond question, as a standard article of merit. By its use the cumbersome hydrogen cylinder and the making of hydrogen gas, with zinc and acid are unnecessary. It consists of three seamless, brass, nickel-plated tubes, 2 inches in diameter and 13 inches long, with carefully-fitted screw-end caps. Each tube is completely filled with a roll of canton flannel, wound on a small spiral spring core the length of the tube, which arrangement gives a perfectly free passage to the oxygen gas which is forced through it when in operation. The cloth rolls or cores are for the purpose of absorbing, to saturation, sulphuric ether, the vapor of which, when mixed with oxygen, perfectly takes the place of hydrogen. The cores fit the tubes so exactly that there is but an exceedingly small amount of space for the accumulation of gas, hence an explosion of the Saturator is impossible. Four of the screw-heads, or caps—two on each end of the instrument—are fitted with short brass tubes, each closed at the end with a small screw plug, with lead washer under its head to prevent the evaporation of the ether. After filling, these short tubes are connected together at each end by short lengths of rubber tubing, thus making the three tubes act as one, with a stop-cock at each end of the system. By this arrangement the Saturator is made convenient to pack and transport from place to place. The whole arrangement weighs only $4\frac{1}{4}$ lbs. Gasolene of 88 degree test can be used with perfect safety in our Saturator, but gasolene vapor does not give as much light as the ether mixture. About 4 ounces of ether are used per hour. The ether-oxygen light is equal in brilliancy to the oxy-hydrogen, and perfectly safe to use. We wish to warn our prospective customers against the use of sheet-iron can gasolene saturators in the market, which are cheaply made and exceedingly dangerous to use. The already long list of accidents from their use is increasing every day. By using either our Compressed Oxygen, or Self-Condensing Oxygen Outfit, in connection with our Saturator, one can make himself independent of any compressed gas supplying company, and rid himself of vexatious delays caused by shipping tanks back and forth, and, at the same time, save express and freight bills.

Special directions for use accompany each Saturator.

GENTLEMEN:—The Sunday nights upon which I preached upon "The Great Nazarene" using the "Imperial" to throw the scenes on the screen, have proved the great educative value of such services. I mean to continue following the Life of Jesus with the Life of Paul and Great Movements in the History and Progress of the World. Last Sunday evening, notwithstanding bad weather, the house was packed from platform to door, and the children even followed my discourse for one hour and ten minutes with attention.

The Imperial with hand feed arc works very nicely. * * *

GENTLEMEN:—I have received the "Imperial" all O. K., and tried it last night and it is all I expected it would be. I have examined all the leading makes of stereopticons and none suit me as well as the "Imperial."

Yours sincerely, J. WALTER WILSON.

GENTLEMEN:—We have been dealing with some other firms and these last monthly entertainments we gave, we did not give at all as the views did not come although they were paid for.

So far as we are concerned the McIntosh Company is ahead, for our dealing has been entirely satisfactory to us. Some days ago when in New York, I happened in _____ and I was the only McIntosh man in the group of people I found there. But you would have thought I was a stockholder in your company, the way I championed your "Imperial." You may, therefore, refer any one to me and feel that the reputation of your Company will not suffer. It is as good as the best and better than the most.

Sincerely yours, REV. ROBT. MOORE, Pastor.

McIntosh Stereopticon Co., 35 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

DEAR SIR:—For several years past I have been using some of your instruments in my work. The High-Pressure Dissolver which you made for me eight years ago has been very satisfactory; I have used it constantly ever since and it has never failed me. The 90-degree, or right-angle Arc Lamp, I find to be the most satisfactory for moving picture work; it is easy to regulate, keeps its optical center and casts less shadow of the carbons than any other I have used. Yours truly, GENTLEMEN:—During my seventeen years' work as a Gospel Temperance evangelist I have always used some form of a stereopticon, but for the past two years I have used your Double Imperial Stereopticon exclusively. For neatness in appearance, simplicity of management and economy in the consumption of gas it is certainly unsurpassed. When properly handled the Imperial at all times gives a most brilliant and perfect picture.

Very truly yours,

GENTLEMEN:—It may be of interest to you to know that I have given over five thousand public exhibitions with your stereopticon to paid audiences without a break or failure of any kind, often producing pictures 28x35 feet.

When in London last I had a triple stereopticon built by a leading London manufacturer at the cost of $1,000. I am arranging a tour to include Great Britain, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Italy, and am planning to take your Imperial stereopticon with me in preference to all others.

A NEW "WRINKLE" IN OXYGEN MAKING APPARATUS By the use of this outfit and our Ether Saturator, the exhibitor or lecturer is rendered entirely independent of the large cities for his supply of gases.

The Compressed Oxygen Outfit.

PRICE, $50.00.

THE COMPRESSED OXYGEN OUTFIT.

Consists primarily of two canvas covered rubber bags, three feet long and eighteen inches in diameter, each encircled by nine extra strong rubber bands, which give to the confined gas its proper pressure without the use of pressure boards and troublesome weights necessary with square bags.

In filling the bags, the bands are left on, sufficient pressure to overcome their resistance being obtained from the liberation of oxygen, by heat, from chemicals confined in retort. Two bags are necessary to hold sufficient oxygen for a two hours' exhibition. One and one-half packages of chemicals will fill the bags. The oxygen gas can be made in twenty minutes.

By using the Compressed Oxygen Outfit and Ether Saturator the entire cost of this light is less than $1.00 for each entertainment.

The outfit is lighter and more compact than any other gas-producing apparatus. You can carry it with you, checking it as ordinary baggage, and thus save express freight or charges.

You make your own gas and thus save the expense of paying some one else to do it. It is as good a light in every way as the oxy-hydrogen, and all things considered, is far cheaper, and you have no expensive express or freight bills to pay.

The oxygen retort complete consists of two parts, a "head" and a retort "body." The head is indestructible and lists at $3.00. The body is of heavy sheet steel, and can be used fifty times or more, then a new body should be purchased; price $3.00 list.

We supply chemicals in sealed packages of two and one-half pounds at 50 cents each or $6.00 per dozen.

DESCRIPTION IN DETAIL.

- A. Gasolene Forge for heating retort.
- B. Iron Retort in which gas is generated.
- C. Opening closed by screw cap where retort is filled.
- D. Brass Union where retort is disconnected.
- E. Brass Union containing Safety Blow-Out Disc.
- F. Brass Union acting as a joint to enable retort to be swung sidwise.
- G. Brass Union acting as joint to enable retort to be swung up or down.

Also place for filling Safety Gas Washing Tubes.

H. Safety Gas Washing Tubes, preventing water from blowing back into hot retort should cylinder valve (K) be carelessly opened when cylinder pressure exceeded retort pressure on second charging.

I. Globe Valve, which, when opened or closed alternately, with Main Spindle, or Needle Valve, enables either retort or cylinder pressure to be registered on the Pressure Gauge (L.)

J. Cylinder Wrench placed on side or regulating Spindle of Cylinder Needle Valve. This valve is kept closed when gas is generating and is the valve used to control the flow of gas to the jet after cylinder is charged and disconnected from the generating portion of outfit.

K. Main Spindle of Double Needle Valve.

L. Pressure Gauge registering cubic feet and pounds pressure on the same dial.

M. Gas Cylinder, 12"x36" tested to 200 pounds hydraulic pressure.

The outfit also includes a pipe tongs, a monkey wrench, a hand-forged steel cylinder wrench, a cleaning rod for retort, extra washers and blow-out disc, and funnel for filling retort, a three-tube Ether Saturator, a small filling funnel, eight feet special rubber hose and T tube for connecting Saturator and Cylinder with jet.

THE SELF-CONDENSING OXYGEN OUTFIT.

Consists of a special cylinder for holding oxygen gas, furnished with Patent "Double Needle Valve," a complete gas generating, washing and compressing outfit, and a three-tube Ether Saturator. The use of the Saturator is to convert part of the oxygen gas into a mixture of ether vapor and oxygen which exactly takes the place of hydrogen and renders the use of a second or hydrogen cylinder unnecessary.

The entire outfit is put up in two substantial boxes with strap hinges and hasps, and provided with rope handles for convenience in transporting. They can be checked as baggage.

The Oxygen gas is made from a mixture of Crystalline chlorate of potash, four parts by weight, to one part of powdered black oxide of manganese, which can be purchased at any drug store.

The gas is liberated from the chemicals by heat, and being confined, produces sufficient pressure to charge the cylinder at once. The apparatus is perfectly safe, easily managed, economical and convenient to transport, weighing about 100 pounds. The light obtained is fully equal to calcium light operated with two gases, either from bags or cylinders. All gas left over at the close of an entertainment is saved for the next exhibition, and more can be made and forced into the cylinder at any convenient time. The owner of this outfit is practically independent of any gas supplying house.

Special directions accompany each Outfit.

CHEMICALS.

The chemicals used in making oxygen gas are Potash-Chlorate and the black Binoxide of Manganese. We put them up mixed, ready for use, in packages of 2½ lbs. each in the proportion of four parts of Potash to one of Manganese.

DISSOLVING KEY No. 1, WITH ADJUSTABLE VALVES.

PRICE.....$12 00

This Dissolver is made especially for mixed gases, and works equally well with the ether-oxygen and oxy-hydrogen gases. It is finely fitted, accurately adjusted, and each one is tested before sending out.

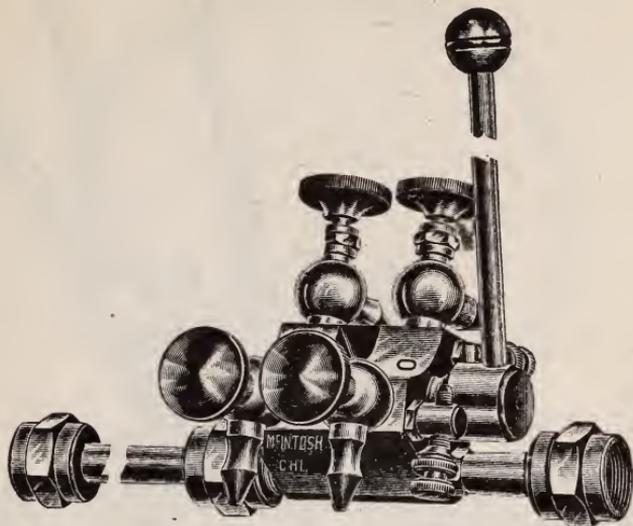

DISSOLVING KEY No. 2, WITH ADJUSTABLE VALVES AND STOPCOCKS.

PRICE.....$15 00

This Dissolver is provided with stopcocks to regulate the supply of gases when using the gas from gasbags or when using oxygen from cylinders and ether from the saturators. As the stopcocks are on the Dissolver it is not necessary to have them on the jets or burners.

THE HIGH PRESSURE DISSOLVING KEY.

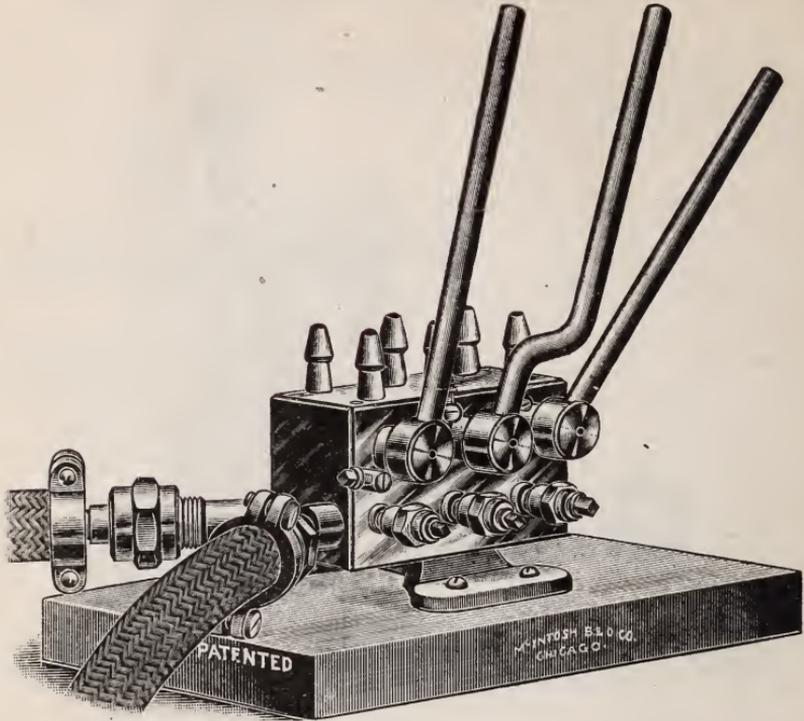

PRICE complete with High Pressure Hose and Couplings. $30.00
 Couplings and clamps complete, for one section. Net 1.50

The Dissolving key for use with oxygen and hydrogen gases is of improved construction; and with it more perfect dissolving effects can be accomplished than with anything heretofore manufactured. When using gas under high pressure, it has been difficult heretofore to establish the equilibrium of the gases, to regulate the supply of gas to each lantern, without darkening the screen somewhat when in the act of dissolving. With this new key this difficulty has been entirely obviated; the gases are under such perfect control, the relative proportion so finely adjusted, that from the beginning to the close of the exhibition there is absolutely no difference in the brilliancy of illumination, no matter in what position the lever of dissolving key may be; whether on the lower or upper lantern or upon both at the same time. This has been accomplished by having each side of the dissolver entirely separate and distinct from the other, so that there is no admixture of the gases, and so regulating the flow of gas, that in identically the same ratio of proportion that you diminish the intensity of the brilliancy of illumination, or technically speaking, the candle power of one lantern, in an exactly corresponding proportion you increase the incandescence in the other lantern.

The end marked "O" is attached directly to the Oxygen Cylinder, while the connection with the Hydrogen Cylinder is with a short length of flexible, high-pressure tubing, with nickel-plated couplings.

THE TRIPLE HIGH PRESSURE DISSOLVING KEY.

PRICE with H. P. Hose $50.00
 High Pressure Hose, per section, with couplings complete..... net 3 00

This Dissolver is designed for use with three lanterns; it has three plugs, three levers and three sets of valves, so that each lantern is entirely separate and distinct from each of the others. Either lantern can be used at will, either two of the three may be used together, or the whole three can be thrown on the screen at the same time. For beautiful "effect dissolving" there is nothing like it.

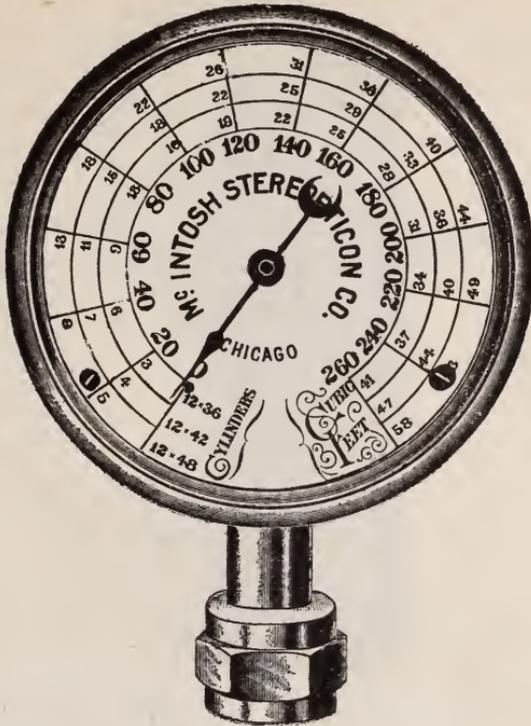

ACETYLENE DISSOLVING KEY.

PRICE..... $5.00

This Key is very carefully constructed of brass, nickel-plated; the supply of gas remaining in the Lantern which is not projecting the picture is regulated by the amount of throw of the lever handle, which is adjusted by stop-screws, one on each side.

THE McINTOSH CYLINDER GAUGE.

PRICE, first quality, indicating cubic ft. and lbs. pressure.....$6.00
 " second quality, indicating lbs. pressure only..... 4.00

The cut illustrates our first-quality Pressure Gauge, which is made of brass, handsomely nickel-plated, with thick bevel glass crystal. Its scale is calibrated for three sizes of cylinders, 12 in. x 48 in.-50 ft., 12 in. x 42 in.-40 ft., 12 in. x 36 in.-35 ft., the capacity being taken when at about 225 lbs. pressure to the square inch. The number of cubic feet of gas in the cylinder is indicated at once, without calculation, by reading the number on the circle indicating the size of the cylinder being tested. The Gauge measures 3 3/8 in. at its largest diameter.

The second-quality Gauge is constructed of Japanned-iron, with a brass bezel ring and plain glass crystal, and measures 4 3/8 in. at its largest diameter. This Gauge indicates pounds pressure only, and in using it it is necessary to know the capacity of the cylinder in feet, and to calculate the contents from the pressure indicated. Both couplings are threaded to the standard, and will fit any cylinder. The Pressure Gauge is a necessity when compressed gases are used, so that the operator is not kept in doubt as to the amount of gas remaining in cylinder at any time after an exhibition. As low as four and as high as ten feet of gas per hour can be used with the same jet. The average consumption, however, is about seven ft. per hour.

AUTOMATIC PRESSURE REGULATORS.

PRICE, nickel-plated, complete. per pair, $15.00

These Regulators automatically control pressure of the gas delivered from the cylinders, maintaining a uniform pressure at the Jet, whether the cylinders are full or nearly empty. When used the cylinder-valves are opened wide and the proper adjustment of gases (by the stop-cocks on jets or Dissolving Key) is made but once during the entire lecture or entertainment. With pressure regulators and Low Pressure Key results like those produced by the High-Pressure Key are obtained.

REGULATING NEEDLE VALVES.

PRICE, nickel plated. per pair, $5.00

Very useful attachments for cylinders. The steel spindles have fine thread which enables the operator to adjust the gases quickly and delicately without their blowing or hissing. No outfit is complete without them.

TWO-WAY ATTACHMENTS.

For tank valves.

PRICE, highly finished and nickle plated.....$3.00
 " High Pressure Hose ($\frac{1}{4}$ in. bore) with Couplings, per Section..... 2.00

These attachments are valuable additions to a lantern outfit when gases from tanks are used. They are attached by means of the coupling nuts to the tank valves after the filling caps have been removed. They have many uses. On one of the threaded stems of each attachment can be fastened a high pressure key and its connecting hose, or a pair of regulating needle valves, then, by using a gas gauge on one or both of the remaining stems, the gas can be regulated and the pressure registered at the same time.

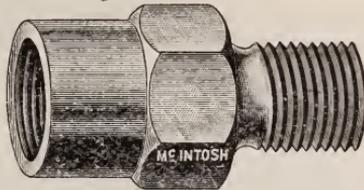

Any operator of a lantern who has ever been in the predicament of being short of gas for a lecture will appreciate the advantage of being able to know the pressure as the gas is consumed, and how to act accordingly.

By using a pair of attachments and two sections of high pressure hose, two pairs of tanks can be quickly coupled together so that as soon as the gas of one pair has been exhausted, a fresh supply from the full tanks can be turned on, and the empty ones shut off without causing delay. This means economy, since practically all the gas in your tanks can be used.

An attachment is very convenient when used with gauge and section of hose for transferring gas from one tank to another. They are also very useful for connecting a dissolving lantern and a separate motion picture machine to tanks, as well as for connecting two calcium lights for two single lanterns to one pair of tanks.

ADAPTERS OR BUSHINGS

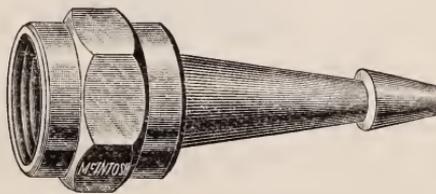

For worn threads.

PRICE, highly finished and nickle plated, each.....$.75

A worn thread on a tank valve, or a damaged thread in a coupling nut of your high pressure key or hose, may cause you much trouble, which the use of the adapters will relieve at once. A pair of adapters with your outfit will save you much annoyance and inconvenience while on the road.

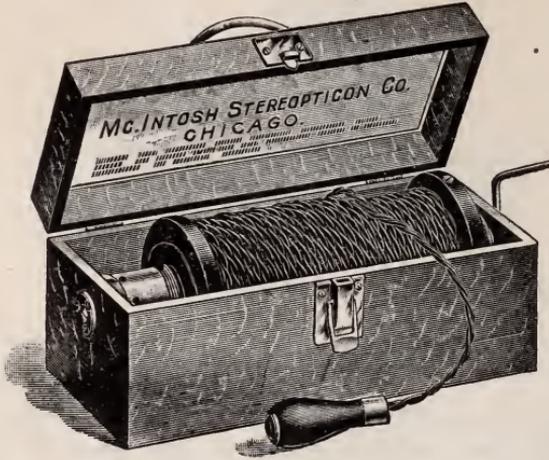

COUPLINGS.

PRICE, highly finished and nickle plated, each.....$.60

Couplings are very convenient for attaching rubber hose to gas tanks having single in place of double needle valves. They can also be used in connection with a pair of two-way attachments where it is necessary to supply two oxy-hydrogen burners from a pair of tanks without using a dissolving key.

LECTURERS' ELECTRIC SIGNAL.

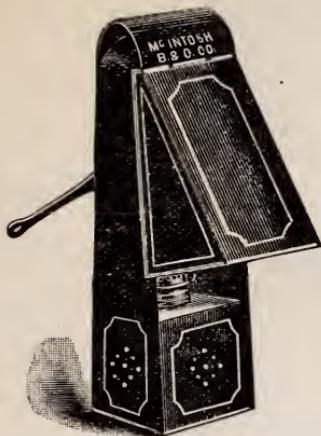

PRICE, with 125 feet flexible cord, a three cell battery and two electric lamps	$8.00
“ extra three cell batteries50
“ extra electric lamps, each.....	.50

Our new signal is a great improvement over the old style. It is smaller and much more convenient in shape. The three cells of dry battery are contained inside of the reel and can quickly be replaced by any one without the necessity of making wire connections. The signal lamp is protected from danger of breakage by being enclosed in a perforated metal cap, which is a continuation of the tube which forms the center of the reel and contains the battery. The lamp and battery revolve with the reel so that rubbing spring contacts between a stationary battery and a revolving spool (used in the old style signal) are unnecessary, thereby eliminating the trouble caused by poor electrical contact.

A noiseless means of communication between the lecturer and the lantern operator to indicate when the next slide is wanted is a great convenience to both lecturer and operator. Every pressure of the button held in the lecturer's hand produces a slight flash of light in the lamp near the operator.

We claim that our new electric signal is the most compact and the best on the market.

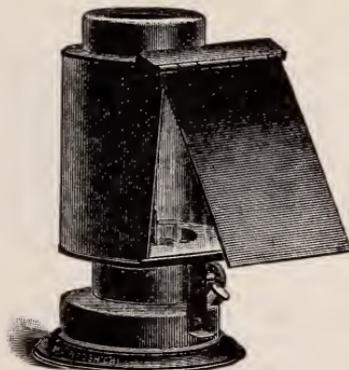

LECTURER'S READING LAMPS.

No. 1.

No. 2.

No. 3.

No. 1.	Price Oil Lamp, packed in neat box.....	$3.00
No. 2.	Price Candle Lamp.....	2.00
No. 3.	Price Dark Room Combination.....	.75

We offer three styles of Lecturer's Reading Lamps. No. 1 is provided with small Kerosene Oil Lamp and Chimney. After using, a common cork screwed into the Lamp in place of burner will prevent damage by leakage.

For our customers who object to the oil, we offer a simple and compact Lamp, No. 2, burning an ordinary candle, forced up by a spiral spring. It gives a fine, clear light, which is thrown directly upon the manuscript. The candle tube is made to telescope into the hood, thus shortening the lamp for convenience in packing.

Both lamps are provided with red flash signal for signaling the operator.

No. 3 is a low-priced and convenient oil lamp which can be used also for developing in dark-room, by using red in place of clear glass.

THE LECTURER'S READING STAND.

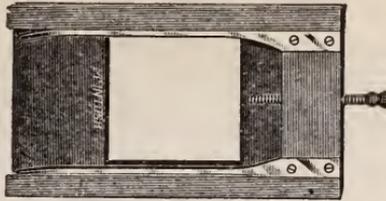

Light, Compact, Convenient, Practicable.

Price, Stand only.....	$1.50
Price, Stand and Best Oil Lamp, No. 1.....	4.50

The Lecturer's Reading stand is a very useful and portable accessory for any Lecturer's outfit. It is made of japanned iron, and the book-support can be adjusted to any convenient angle, or height. It is also arranged to hold our Lecturer's Reading Lamp, No. 1, the hood of which prevents the light from being diffused, and concentrates it upon the page of the lecture. The stand when folded is very compact.

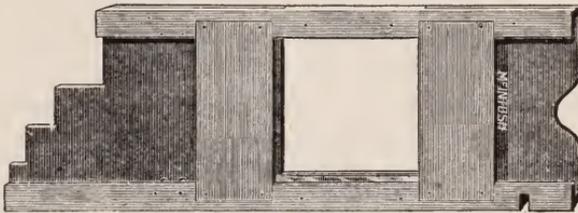

SLIDE CARRIERS.

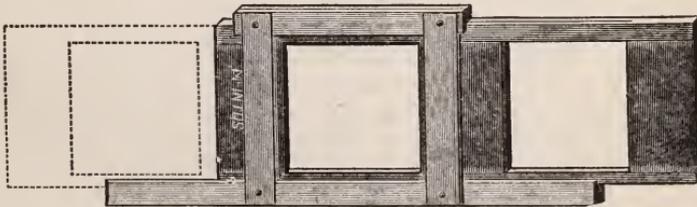

"Imperial," for Dissolving Lantern.....Price, $.50
For both English and American slides.

"Self Centering," for Dissolving Lantern.....Price, $2.00
For both English and American slides.

"Panorama" or "Push Through," for Single Lantern.....Price, $.50
For both English and American slides.

"Rapid," for single Lantern.....Price, $.50
In ordering this carrier state whether for English or American slides.

"Universal," for single Lantern.....Price, $0.75
For both English and American Slides.

The "Universal" would appear in a cut the same as the "Rapid" carrier above, but it differs in construction since it has two grooves side by side on each end instead of one for holding the slides. The shortest groove is intended for the English size, the other for the American size. This carrier is of great convenience when exhibiting a mixed lot of slides.

PERFECTION SLIDE MOUNT.

PRICE, in lots of less than 100, each.....$0.10
 " " " " 100 or more..... 8.00

The Perfection Slide Mount is designed to take the place of both the tin slide protectors and the regular wood mounts which we formerly handled.

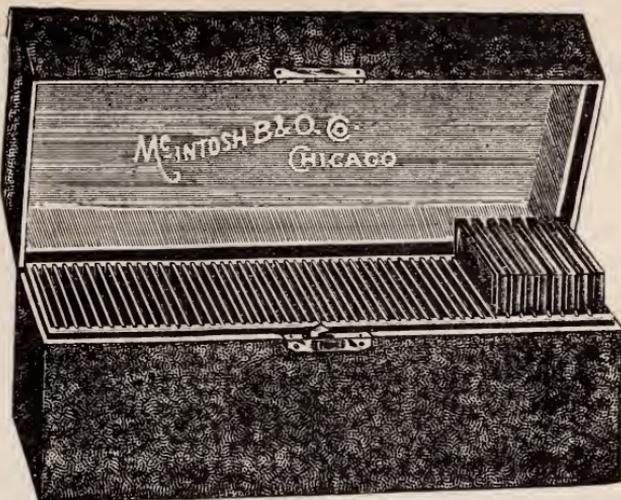

The new mount while giving the same protection to the slide that the old style did occupies but one-half the space and is but one-half the weight. The size (4 x 7) conforms to the regular colored wood mounted slide.

It is the experience of traveling lecturers that it is almost impossible to pack unmounted slides so that they can be shipped as baggage and be safe from breakage. With the idea of furnishing a mounting which shall be convenient, light in weight, and inexpensive we offer the Perfection Mount.

The slide mount as above illustrated consists of a wooden frame about the thickness of an average lantern slide, on each side of which is glued a mat of extra heavy manila paper, the opening of which is a little larger than the standard mat opening of a lantern slide. Part of one side of one of the manila mats is left detached so that the slide can easily be inserted before the loose portion is glued down. On one side is printed a spot or "thumb mark" to aid the operator in placing the slide properly in the lantern.

Use the Perfection Mount, ship your slides as baggage, save your strength and do not worry about breakage.

LANTERN SLIDE BOXES.

PRICE, White Wood Box, cloth covered, partitioned, with strong catch (see cut), capacity 50 slides.....	$1.00

We can furnish the Polished Oak Boxes with strong nickle-plated drop handles, for 25 cts. extra.
Fine, Leather Covered Case, partitioned, cover padded inside, rounded edges, leather covered handle, strong hinges, two catches, lock and key, capacity 112 slides.....	5.00
Special Sizes to order, prices upon application.

MAKE YOUR SLIDES UNIFORM.

A trifling expense and a little trouble will remove that great annoyance of all operators, the difference in size between American and English slides. With our new cardboard slips, American size cover glass and a few binders, you can piece out your English size slides to the regulation American size, also recognized as standard by the French makers, being $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches wide by 4 inches long.

PORTABLE ADJUSTABLE EXTENSION SCREEN FRAME.

PRICE, $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter, per section.....\$0 50
 PRICE, 2 inches in diameter, per section..... 75

A practicable Portable Extension Screen Frame that can be adapted to all sizes of screens is a great desideratum to the traveling exhibitor. We furnish a portable sectional frame constructed as follows :

It is composed of the required number of sections, each section being three feet in length, one and one-half inches in diameter, of tough, thoroughly seasoned whitewood. Two of the end sections have a sharp-pointed brad that stick into the floor so that it cannot slip or get out of position ; the other two end sections, each have a pulley let into the body of the section through which is carried the screen rope, and is attached to a small screw-eye in the floor in a line with the face of the screer, and at the proper distance from the screen ; then two guy-ropes at each side of the screen, one extending forward and one backward, serve to hold the screen immovably in place. This device answers admirably for screens up to twenty feet square. Larger screens than this require a heavier frame.

We recommend $1\frac{1}{2}$ -inch poles for screens 12 feet square and under, and 2-inch poles for screens over 12 feet square.

For use in lodges, colleges and private residences these screens are unequalled save by a smooth white wall.

SCREEN ROPE.

Price per skein.....$1.00

One other desirable feature in hanging or putting up a screen is a good quality of rope. We supply the best grade Bird Island sash weight cord, which is tested to stand a tensile strain of 500 pounds dead weight. It is put up in skeins of 100 feet.

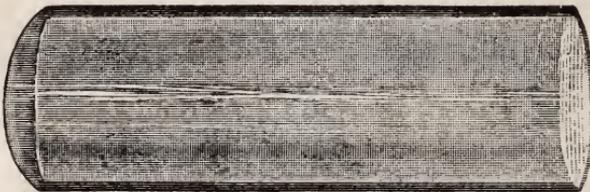

LIMES.

PRICE, (per can) one dozen Limes.....	$1.00
“ Disc Limes, to order only, in tin cans, per dozen.....	2.00
“ Mailing rate, per can, 25c.

Our Limes are of superior quality, neither too hard nor too soft; their incandescent properties are unsurpassed. We put them up in screw top tin cans containing one dozen each—the cans being so constructed that they can be hermetically closed every time after they are used by the consumer.

We also furnish English Limes; those that have a hole drilled through the center. Also the Disc Limes, such as are used in some of the old style Lanterns at the present day.

PRICE, sealed in glass, regular, per dozen.....	$1.50
“ sealed in glass: regular, each.....	.15
“ English Limes, sealed in glass only, per dozen.....	2.00

The advantage of being able to buy single selected limes, hermetically sealed in glass will be greatly appreciated by persons who use lime light but occasionally, and who have been obliged in the past to purchase a fresh box for each lecture, as their unused limes had slacked in the interval between lectures.

PROJECTION LENSES.

Achromatic Objectives for Lanterns.

The most desirable feature to be looked for in a Lantern Objective is its defining power; it is not difficult to obtain an objective of any desired magnifying power—what is wanted is a clear, sharp definition, a flat field brilliantly illuminated to the very edge of disc. There are many different makes of objectives on the market, but only a few are worthy of your attention. We prefer the French, taking everything in consideration, as the best Lens made for general work. These Lenses are mounted in finely finished and lacquered brass, and have the highest grade rack and pinion action. There are different sizes of Objectives, that are known as “One-Fourth,” “One-Third,” “One-Half,” “Two-Thirds,” and “Four Four” sizes. While this nomenclature is arbitrary, and the same size lenses by different makers have different powers, yet the law of each lens is a fixed one—at a given distance it will make a certain size of picture. This law cannot be changed. The law of the different Lenses is as follows:

A “One-Fourth” makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-half its range.

A “One-Third” Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square two-fifths its range.

A “One-Half” Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-third its range, less 10 per cent.

A “Two-Third” Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-fourth its range.

A “Four-Four” Lens makes a disc, or picture, in diameter or square one-fifth its range.

The “Wide Angle” makes a disc or picture, in diameter or square, either two-thirds of its range, or 12 inches of disc for every foot of range, according to its focal length.

ACHROMATIC OBJECTIVES.

The objectives listed below are manufactured specially for us from our original patterns under our own name, and are guaranteed fully equal to the higher priced lenses on the market in illumination, definition, flatness of field and workmanship of mounting, and will be supplied with all our lanterns as priced.

SPECIAL OUTFITS.

It has been our custom in the past to include in our Catalogue certain estimates, consisting of Lanterns of different kinds, with various illuminants and necessary adjuncts and accessories going to make up a general list of outfits of different kinds, but we have given the matter careful consideration, and have concluded that an estimate of this kind is impracticable, as there are so many different kinds of Lanterns, each of which can be made up into a different outfit by exchange of illuminants, and we have therefore determined in this issue to discontinue the special list of outfits, and if parties will write us, selecting from the body of our Catalogue about the style of Lantern, with illuminant, they desire, we will be pleased to make up full estimates on that basis including all the necessary accessories for the outfit.

Unless otherwise specified, all Lanterns are priced on the basis of the $\frac{1}{4}$ size objective, which makes a picture $\frac{1}{2}$ its range. Please turn to pages 78 and 79 for the different ranges and prices of objectives. When other than the $\frac{1}{4}$ size are specified, the difference in price between them can thus be easily determined.

In making up estimates, unless otherwise directed, we will include all accessory items necessary for beginning to work. Bear in mind that a screen of the proper size to adapt the lens to the required distance, with screen rope, is always necessary, and when calcium light is used a pair of lime tongs, a cylinder gauge for testing the amount of gas remaining in the cylinders, and a cylinder key will be found indispensable adjuncts. When lime light is used gases may be obtained in cylinders from the large supply points, or parties can manufacture their own oxygen gas with one of our gas-making outfits, and use the Ether Saturator. Description for this apparatus will be found on pages 54, and 56 to 59 inclusive. For parties traveling we recommend the use of the Ether Saturator in place of the hydrogen cylinder. The oxy-ether will yield a full clearer, whiter light than the oxy-hydrogen, and dispenses with the heavy cylinder. For traveling we recommend the use of the lime light as being the best and most practical and available light for the purpose.

When permanently located, and if electricity is available, we recommend the use of this illuminant, it being by all means the strongest, the easiest to operate and least expensive to maintain of any of the first-class artificial lights. The ordinary incandescent current can be used, from 52 to 110 volts. The Direct current of 110 volts is recommended as the better, although an alternating current will give practically the same results in illumination, but the alternating current when used with an Arc Lamp always makes a little humming or buzzing sound which is somewhat objectionable at first, but not sufficiently annoying to preclude the use of the Arc Lamp on this current when the Direct current is not available.

READ CAREFULLY.

WE consider this the most important page in the Catalogue. We intend to give full and complete information on every point connected with Lanterns, Slides, and every subject pertaining thereto. All Previous Lists Canceled.

A general and special index as well as price list of Stereopticons, Accessories and Slides will be found on last ten pages of catalogue.

Slide renting fully explained on page 85.

How to Remit.

By currency in registered letter; by Post Office or Express Money Order; by New York or Chicago exchange.

How to Order and Have Goods Shipped.

Write plainly your name, express and post office address, giving name of town, county and State; be careful to write your signature legibly. Much trouble arises from a blindly written signature. Always give the full name of article wanted, number of same, and page in Catalogue, also edition of Catalogue. In ordering Slides give subject, name of Slide, page and number. Always be explicit in giving shipping directions, whether by mail, express or freight, and when possible, the express company or R. R. route you prefer, stating the day you desire us to ship; we will comply with same, but will not assume the responsibility of safe or prompt delivery. Traveling lecturers and exhibitors should always give us their permanent address and also a list of the towns on their "route" so that we can always reach them by direct mail and avoid the risk and delay of having letters and parcels forwarded. Always allow plenty of time for correspondence to go and come. Remember it takes some time to fill an order after it is received.

Mailing Rates vs. Express Charges.

It is much cheaper to send many small articles by mail than by express. Limit of weight is four pounds. Slides will be mailed at the following prices, which includes box, packing and postage:

1 Plain or Unmounted Slide.....	.10c.	1 Wood Mounted Slide.....	.10c.
3c. each for additional Plain Slides.		4c. each for additional Mounted Slides.
For Registering Package, 10c. additional.

SPECIAL SLIDE WORK.

We make a specialty of making Lantern Slides to order from any "copy" with which we may be furnished at the following prices:

One Plain Slide from Negative, net	$0.40
One Plain Slide from Photograph, Wood or Steel Engraving, Oil Painting, Lithograph, Page in Book, etc., etc., net75
One Colored Round Wood Mounted, Sealed, to order, net	2.00
One Colored Square Wood Mounted, Sealed, to order, net	2.50
For Coloring One Plain Slide, net.....	.75

As slides made to order are seldom available for our stock and mean an actual loss if not taken by the customer ordering, we require cash to accompany the order for all special work.

In ordering Slides, always give: First, the edition of the Catalogue you order from; then the page, and then the number and name of Slide wanted.

See page 82 for mailing rates.

We deal, import, and manufacture lantern slides, our trade is considerable and we may be out of some of your order, therefore we deem it policy when ordering slides to give a second choice or else authorize us to make a close substitution, with the privilege of exchange of such substituted slides providing same are returned within ten days from date of invoice. We cannot at all times furnish on demand all the slides we catalogue, but any and every slide that we might happen to be out of when you order we can furnish in a reasonable time.

Desiring rather that our catalogue should show slides of a high quality than a long list we have withdrawn the negatives which have become out of date, defective or proved nearly like others, etc., which explains the break in the numbers in such lists as Penna, La., Italy, etc., this being less laborious than renumbering our immense stock of slide and negatives.

SLIDE RENTALS.

For the convenience of parties finding it necessary or desirable to make a frequent change of subjects, our immense collection is put at their disposal upon the following favorable

RATES

For each slide, 5c for the first day and 1c per day, or fraction thereof, thereafter, charge to commence when slides leave our possession and end upon their return.

No Charge for Sundays or Legal Holidays.

Customers residing more than 100 miles from Chicago allowed two days' rental Without Charge, to apply on time in transit. Example: Sixty slides shipped to St. Paul, Minnesota, Friday and received by us Tuesday, 1 days' rental on 60 slides @ 5c.....$3.00

N. B.—On Christmas, Easter and Washington's Birthday everyone wants the same slides at the same time, and in order to be sure of slides wanted, you may place your order as early in advance as may be desired and slides will be laid away, if in stock, and you will be notified accordingly; this cannot be done without loss to us for less than 10c per slide; this is the only way in which they can be definitely promised, but for this fee slides may be had in advance of entertainment date, but must be returned immediately after being used. Orders not placed on this basis will be accepted at regular rate, but nothing binding can be promised.

TERMS.

A Cash Deposit, (full value of slides) will insure fulfillment of your order without question. Amount of rental will be deducted after slides are received by us, and balance returned, with receipted bill.

A Letter of Guaranty from a banker or responsible business house will be accepted in lieu of cash deposit; recommendations or endorsements will not meet the requirements; positive guaranty is necessary.

CUSTOMERS MUST PREPAY RETURN TRANSPORTATION CHARGES.

RESTRICTIONS.

Sets indexed under the head of "Foreign Lecture Sets" will be rented only in their entirety; selections are not permitted either for purchase or for rental.

Of Mechanical Slides only the Comic Slipping Slides will be rented.

CANCELLATION OR POSTPONEMENT.

Where slides have been ordered ahead and set aside for certain dates, a compensation fee of $1.00 will be required upon all cancellation of orders, and upon such postponements as may have occasioned us loss.

ADVICE.

When possible, always place your order far enough ahead to allow ample time for filling, packing and shipping your order. It sometimes requires several hours to select the slides. As we rent an enormous number of slides and may lack some of those ordered, please give a second and third choice, or authorize us to substitute an equal number of similar subjects. We pack carefully and ship on the day named, assuming no responsibility as to breakage or prompt delivery, renter bearing all transportation charges and damage done to slides while out of our possession.

Lecture readings in stock furnished with slides, rental free, if requested.

ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PROJECTION.

It would be impossible to include within the limits of a catalogue a complete list of all the slides prepared for projection by the various manufacturers. We append lists which illustrate most of the subjects to which this art is applied, and can furnish in addition any special series offered by other houses, at their advertised price.

Photographs from Nature are the most popular because they are always beautiful and absolutely correct representations of places and objects. These are usually prepared on glass plates averaging $3\frac{1}{4}$ x 4 inches in size, protected by a thin glass cover and bound with black paper.

Fine Colored Photographic Views. Those included in our lists are made only by the best artists; they are carefully sealed, to protect the colors from the action of the atmosphere, and inclosed in wood frames 4 x 7 inches. We have not quoted the cheaper grades of colored views, which possess neither beauty nor merit, but only those which are artistic and pleasing to a refined taste.

Photographs of Engravings, Diagrams, and of Microscopic Objects can be furnished in greatest variety. They are mounted in the same style as the photographs from nature. Many diagrams can be made by the instructor by covering a suitable plate of glass with a thin film of varnish, paraffine, starch or soap and drawing the design with a sharp pointed instrument, through the film. The light can pass through only those lines where the film is removed.

Views of Statuary are each upon square glass slides $3\frac{1}{4}$ x 4 inches in size, with black background.

Chromatropes are 3 in. in diameter, in frame 4 in. wide by 7 or 12 inches long. They produce the effect of the kaleidoscope. The pictures are produced by brilliant designs painted upon two circular glasses, and the glasses made to rotate in different directions. An endless variety of changes in the pattern are caused by turning the wheel, sometimes slowly, then quickly, backward and forward.

Dissolving Views consist of plain or colored slides and require two lanterns to produce the finest results. With these it is possible to change summer to winter, day to night, the exterior of a palace to an interior. The gliding of a boat, shadowy forms of spirits or the witches and goblins of the magician's cauldron can be shown with startling effect. These views may also be varied by the use of tinters, or discs of colored glass, placed over the stereopticon lens.

Microscopic Projection. Objects intended for this purpose are usually mounted upon glass slips 1 x 3 inches in size, covered by glass and sealed. Glass cells are used for liquids. Photo-Micrographs prepared similarly to lantern transparencies are also designed for lantern projection.

Professors and teachers can have colored or plain photographic copies made from their own designs—promptly, and in a superior manner. Designs should have sharp outlines, and be about twelve inches in diameter, done in India ink, free from colors. Any of the plain slides named in the following lists can be furnished, colored.

When requested, lecture reading will be supplied gratis with slides either for the sale or rental of such sets as are marked "with reading" or readings may be purchased alone for 25 cents each.

Descriptive Readings or "Lectures" of any series of slides not accompanied with a printed lecture, will be furnished by us in manuscript at 40c per slide, or in typewriting at 50c per slide. The large public library of this city enables us to obtain any information or "data" published upon almost any subject.

We find that people generally are very careless about putting their name on packages that they mail or express to us. We therefore request that all parcels sent us be marked with the name and post-office address of the sender.

In many instances several views of the same place will be found in different parts of the lists of slides, this means that while the subject is the same, that the views are taken from different positions or angles of vision and frequently by different artists. In ordering always give name of slide in full and its number and page in the catalogue and edition of catalogue.

TISSOT PAINTINGS OF THE LIFE OF CHRIST.

The Tissot Paintings are the finest illustrations of the Life of Christ ever produced. Not only the novelty of Tissot's work, but also the remarkable care in introducing "local color," and in reproducing the very spirit of the Gospel stories as well, give the paintings a new charm. Moreover, they are comprehensive, covering every incident in our Lord's life. Nothing so complete, in every sense of the word, has been attempted or accomplished.

The prices for these slides are somewhat higher than usual; this is rendered absolutely necessary by the unusual expenses in copying the paintings, etc. Each separate slide is plainly marked, in several places, by the copyright notice, and no one can be allowed, for private use, to reproduce any of them in any way.

The price of the slides is as follows: Plain Slides, 75 cents each; Colored Slides, $2.00 each. The list follows the chronological order adopted by M. Tissot.

TISSOT HYMN SLIDES.

Each slide has two or more verses of some one of the dear old favorite Hymns, a few bars of the music of the tune, and also that one of the Tissot Paintings which best illustrates the hymn and re-enforces its effect. These Tissot Hymn Slides are furnished at the same prices as others, viz.: Plain Slides, 75 cents each; Colored Slides, $2.00 each.

NOTE—The titles of the paintings are somewhat changed, in order to show the connection between the painting and the hymn. The number after the title, in brackets, is the number of the painting in the list above.

GENTLEMEN— In all our missions we have found an eye picture very materially aids them to grasp a word picture." I want, therefore, to get a magic lantern to illustrate Bible and other talks.

Yours truly,

REV. J. C. SPENCER.

To Busy Pastors, wishing to increase the Sunday evenings' attendance below will prove of incalculable help. The pictures are selected and arranged to illustrate sermons on the several topics by the Rev. Geo. H. Hubbard, a copy of the sermon accompanying each series.

ABIDE WITH ME.

Twenty-five beautifully colored slides arranged and perfected to illustrate the favorite hymn, "Abide with Me," by Henry Francis Lyte.

See also Economic List.

Those who have seen the effect produced upon an audience by the judicious use of music in connection with certain slides, at the closing of an entertainment, will readily appreciate what the set now offered must be.

- 1-2 Abide with me fast falls the ebb-tide;
The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide!

Two views, the first representing a lighthouse, with nothing visible but the sea, and the whole showing that night approaches. The second view is the same, but at night, with a beautiful effect upon the water.

3. When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, oh! abide with me.

A houseless and homeless wanderer, crouching upon the steps of a brilliantly lighted mansion, gazing in through the windows at the comforts so sadly needed.

4. Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day;
Earth's Joys grow dim; its glories
pass away;

An old church in ruins, in the midst of toppling grave-stones, well illustrates how "its glories pass away."

5. Change and decay in all around I see;
O Thou, who changest not, abide with
me!

A beautiful moonlight view of a ruined abbey, well expressing "change and decay."

6. Not a brief glance, I beg, a passing word;
But, as Thou dwell'st with Thy disciples, Lord,

Our Lord, with his disciples, partaking of the last supper.

7. Familiar, condescending, patient,
free,
Come, not to sojourn, but abide with
me!

The Savior, "familiar, condescending, patient, free," surrounded by the "little children," whom he loved so well.

8. Come not in terrors, as the King of kings;
But, kind and good, with healing in Thy wings;

A scene in which the "kind and good"
phase of our Savior's character is typified at the bedside of the sick and dying.

9. Tears for all woes, a heart for every plea;
Come, Friend of sinners, and thus
abide with me!

The "Friend of sinners," standing over the crouching, penitent figure, and saying, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

10. Thou on my head in early youth
didst smile;
And, though rebellious and perverse
meanwhile,

A beautiful child watched over by two elder sisters—a perfect gem of a picture.

- 11-12. Thou hast not left me, oft as I left Thee.

On to the close, O Lord! abide with me.

Angel faces appearing as in readiness to crown with glory one who is near "the close."

13. I need Thy presence every passing hour;
What but Thy grace can foil the
tempter's power?

The central group of Dubufe's celebrated picture, the "Prodigal Son," showing the youth surrounded by the
"tempter's power."

14. Who, like Thyself, my guide and stay can be?
Through cloud and sunshine, oh!
abide with me.

The figure of a woman weary with work, and the unmistakable surroundings of one who sees more of "cloud" than "sunshine," illustrates this number.

15. I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless;
Ills have no weight and tears no bitterness;

Showing a widow at the grave of her departed husband; but her look of resignation shows that although there were tears, they have lost their bitterness.

16. Where is Death's sting? Where,
Grave, thy victory?
I triumph still, if Thou abide with
me!

An arena filled with dead and dying, sacrificed to furnish diversion for an emperor; angels hovering over the martyrs.

- 17-18. Hold, then, Thy cross before my closing eyes!
Shine through the gloom, and point
me to the skies!

Faith, looking forward sees the cross rise before her, pointing to the skies.

- 19 to 25. Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee;
In life and death, O Lord! abide with
me.

The numbers 19 to 25 combine to make a brilliant effect. As the last view previous to this fades gradually away into a rose-tinted cloud, two angels emerge, bearing in their arms a departed soul.
Gradually the figures disappear. An entirely different cloud appears and the same figures emerge again, apparently further away, and in their turn disappear into a third cloud, different from either of the preceding; when flying in the opposite direction, as though a long way off, appear the angels with their burden, only to melt away into a cloud of the brightest ruby tints.

A FLIGHT OF A SOUL.

The last seven numbers of the above set form a set by themselves, called "The Flight of a Soul." Customers who do not care to purchase the entire series of twenty-five can obtain the seven slides separately.

EDUCATIONAL SLIDES.

Movable Astronomical Diagrams.

A very desirable series. Revolving motion produced by Rack-work.

Per set, in box, $40.00.

- 1 The Solar System, showing the Revolution of all the Planets, with their Satellites, around the Sun
- 2 The Earth's Annual Motion around the Sun, showing the Parallelism of its axis, thus producing the Seasons
- 3 The cause of Spring and Neap tides, and the Moon's Phases, during its revolution
- 4 The Apparent Direct and Retrograde Motion of Venus or Mercury, and also its Stationary Appearance
- 5 The Earth's Rotundity, proved by a ship sailing around the Globe, and a line drawn from the eye of an observer placed on an eminence
- 6 The Eccentric Revolution of a Comet around the Sun, and the appearance of its Tail at different points of its Orbit
- 7 The Diurnal Motion of the Earth, showing the Rising and Setting of the Sun, illustrating the cause of Day and Night, by the Earth's rotation upon its Axis
- 8 The Annual Motion of the Earth around the Sun, with the Monthly lunations of the Moon
- 9 The various eclipses of the Sun with the Transit of Venus. The Sun appears as seen through a telescope
- 10 The various Eclipses of the Moon. The Moon appears as seen through a telescope

Ideal Geological Landscapes.

An artistic series of superior execution, illustrating the various periods from the Silurian to the appearance of man

- 1 Silurian Period
- 2 Devonian Period

- 3 Transition Period
- 4 Carboniferous Period
- 5 Forest of Coal Period
- 6 Permian Period
- 7 Triassic Period
- 8 Conchylial Sub-Period
- 9 Saliferous Period
- 10 Lower Oolite Period
- 11 Lower Cretaceous Period
- 12 Cretaceous Period
- 13 Eocene Period
- 14 Miocene Period
- 15 Drift Period
- 16 Recent Period

Crystallography.

- 1 Primary Forms
- 2 Regular System
- 3 Quadratic System
- 4 Hexagonal System
- 5 Rhombic System
- 6 Monoclinic System
- 7 Triclinic System
- 8 Ice Flowers (Tyndall)
- 9 Ice Crystals

Forty additional subjects, all photographs; no list.

Spectrum Analysis.

- 1 Decomposition of Light by Prism
- 2 Comparative intensity of heating, luminous and chemically active rays
- 3 Fraunhofer's Map of Solar Spectrum
- 4 The Spectroscope
- 5 Spectra of the Sun, Beta Cygni and Hydrogen
- 6 Spectra of Potassium Rubidium, Sodium and Lithium
- 7 Spectra of Carbon, Comet IL, (1868) Spark and Nebulae
- 8 Spectra of Aldebaran and Alpha Orionis
- 9 Kirchoff's Map (from 194 to 220) and Rutherford's photograph of same
- 10 Spectra of Chlorophyll, Chloride of Uranium, Magenta and Blood
- 11 Gassiot's Spectroscope
- 12 Huggin's Map of Metallic Lines, from 320 to 2790
- 13 Huggin's Map of Metallic Lines, from 2790 to 5250

- 15 Map of Solar Spectrum - from 38 to 163
- 16 Map of Solar Spectrum from 162 to 287
- 17 Map of Solar Spectrum from 283 to 406
- 18 Coincidence of Spectrum of Iron with 65 of the Fraunhofer Lines

- 19 Spectra of the Sun, Chromosphere, Prominence, and Corona
- 20 The Atmospheric Lines

Structural Botany.

- 1 Vertical Section of Extremity of Root, highly magnified
- 2 Section of Leaf (White Lily and Oleander) highly magnified
- 3 Section of Coniferous Wood and Glands highly magnified
- 4 Longitudinal Section of portion of Stem and Spiral Vessels
- 5 Lactiferous Vessels of Celandine and Ficus Elastica
- 6 A Sting of a Nettle, showing circulation of Sap
- 7 (1) Air Cells from Stem Limncharis Plumieri; (2) ditto, showing open passages at Angles of Cells; (3) Epidermis of Oncidium allissimum; (4) Stomata of Croton variegatum
- 8 Section of Elm Branch
- 9 Section of Ash Branch
- 10 Transverse and Vertical Section of Negundo, a year old
- 11 Section of Fern Stem and Scalariform Tissue
- 12 Pollen Grains (six varieties)
- 13 Pollen Masses (Orchis, Plantanthera, and Asclepias)
- 14 Starch Grains (Potato, Wheat and Maize, in Cells)
- 15 Vertical Section of Stigma of Ditura
- 16 Conducting Tissue in Stigma of Ditura
- 17 Section of Ovule of Polygonum before and after fecundation
- 18 Germination of Fern Spore
- 19 Fern and Sporangia
- 20 Spores and Sporidia of Diseased Grain of Wheat

Additional Botany.

- 1 Almond, Flower and Fruit
- 2 Banyan Tree
- 3 Blackberry, Flower and fruit
- 4 Black Pepper
- 5 Cactus

Extinct Animals.

From Originals by Waterhouse Hawkins, Esq., the eminent Naturalist.

- 1 Plesiosaurus. Teleosaurus, Ichthyosaurus, Pentacrinites, Ammonites. Gryphaea
- 2 Megalosaurus. Pterodactyl
- 3 Iguanodon, Hylaeosaurus
- 4 Anoplotherium - Common, Anoplotherium Gracile, Palaeotherium
- 5 Magatherium Glyptodon
- 6 Elephas, Primogeneus, Hyæna Spelæa, Hippopotamus Major, Ursus Spelæus, Machairodus Latidens

Honey Bee.

- 1 Queen, Working Bee, Drone and Comb
- 2 Head of the Worker
- 3 Abdomen of the Worker
- 4 Structure of the Eye of a Bee
- 5 Proboscis of the Worker

- 6 Wing and Hind Leg of Worker
- 7 Wing of Worker
- 8 Digestive, Respiratory and Nervous System of the Bee
- 9 Larva and Pupæ of Worker
- 10 Home of the Bees

Botanical Illustrations.

- 1 Parts of a Plant
- 2 Germination
- 3 Roots
- 4 Buds and Leaves
- 5 Flowers and Inflorescence
- 6 Stamens and Pistils
- 7 Exogenous Structure
- 8 Crowfoot family Columbine, etc
- 9 Pink Family
- 10 Tobacco

Additional Scientific.

Natural History. Beautifully colored photographs of Animals, Birds, Reptiles and Fishes. Per slide, $1.50.

Whale Fishery. Per set of 12 slides, $18; per slide, $1.50.

Entomological Illustrations. Per set of 20 slides, $25; per slide, $1.25.

Insects, sixty subjects. Per slide, $1.50.

Insect Metamorphosis, showing different stages of transformations, with beautiful landscapes; twenty subjects. Per slide, $1.50.

Flowers and Plants; fifty subjects. Per slide $1.50.

Important Plants Useful to Man. Per set of 10 slides, $12.50.

Optics. Per set of 20 slides, $25; per slide, $1.50.

Natural Phenomena. Per set of 12 slides, $18; per slide, $1.50.

Anatomical Illustrations, from engravings of Bonamy and Broca, Paris. Per slide, colored, $1.50; plain, 50 cents.

Nervous System, from Plates by Hirschfield; the best on the subject. Per slide, colored, $1.50.

Viviparous Quadrupeds of North America. John

James Audubon. 150 subjects. List sent on application.

Botanical Lantern Slides.

From Photomicrographs of Actual Preparations.

Copyright, 1903, by Wm. H. Knap.

The set complete in box, $12.00; slides singly, 50 cts.

- 1 Spirogyra, a very complete series
- 2 Diatoms, showing Navicula, Triceratium, Coccinodiscus and other forms
- 3 Mucor Stolonifer, Mycelium and several stages in zygosporic reproduction
- 4 Puccinia Graminis (the Rust of Wheat and Oats)
- 5 Coprinus comatus (Shaggy Mane Mushroom)
- 6 Bryum proliferum (Moss), longitudinal section
- 7 Polytrichum commune (Moss), longitudinal section
- 8 Bryum proliferum (Moss), three longitudinal sections
- 9 Marchantia polymorpha, longitudinal section
- 10 Marchantia polymorpha, longitudinal section
- 11 Pteris aquilina (the Bracken Fern), transverse section of the rhizome
- 12 Pteris cretica, the entire male prothallium, showing antheridia and rhizoids
- 13 Pteris cretica, longitudinal section of the female prothallium
- 14 Pteris cretica, transverse section of a leaf, showing sporangia in various stages of development
- 15 Pinus Laricio (Austrian Pine) longitudinal section of ovule
- 16 Pinus Banksiana, longitudinal and transverse sections of a four-year old stem
- 17 Lilium tigrinum, transverse section of a nearly ripe anther
- 18 Lilium canadense, transverse section of the ovary
- 19 Smilax herbacea, transverse section of the root, etc.

- 20 Zea Mais (Indian corn), transverse section of stem
 21 Ruta graveolens (Rue), transverse section of a leaf
 22 Capsella Bursa-pastoris (Shepherd's Purse), longitudinal section of entire seed
 23 Xanthium canadense (Cockle Burr), transverse section of stem
 24 Tilia americana (Basswood), transverse and longitudinal sections of a two year old stem
 25 Brasenia peltata, transverse section of stem

A FLIGHT OF A SOUL

Consisting of seven beautiful, colored slides is often used during the singing of "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." From a rose tinted cloud two angels emerge, bearing in their arms a departed soul. Gradually the figures disappear. An entirely different cloud appears, and the same figures emerge again, apparently further away, and in their turn disappear into a third cloud, different from either of the preceding; when flying in the opposite direction, as though a long way off, appear the angels with their burden, only to melt away into a cloud of the brightest ruby tints.

Lodges having dissolving instruments ought to use our special set of six slides for the Ascension—a very realistic series.

A similar set, arranged by Kimball Sedgwick, of Sunbury, Ohio, is used by Columbia Chapter No. 33, and is endorsed by the Grand Chapter of Ohio and Mrs Lorraine J. Pitkin, of Chicago, Ills. It differs from the regular set in that it is used only AFTER the ceremonies of initiation and closing of the chapter, while the regular set is used during the initiation. Descriptive lecture furnished for 50 cents.

To embellish the work many Lodges introduce music and we can furnish a set of five illustrations particularly appropriate for K. of P. work

Paxton, Ill.

McIntosh Stereopticon Co., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:—The Stereopticon we bought of you gives great satisfaction and is a great help in the exemplification of our work.

Fraternally,

C. E. BEACH, K. R. & S.,
Patton Lodge, No. 498, K. P.

Sheboygan, Wisc.

C. W. Bassett, Chicago, Ill.:

Dear Sir and Brother:—You will undoubtedly receive a remittance from our Lodge after the next week's meeting. In regard to your "Imperial" Lantern, you can say to prospective purchasers that our Lodge gave it the preference over three other machines sent by competitors on trial, your machine beating them all in quality, mechanical construction, ease of operation, and, last but not least, in price. It cost our Lodge some money to ascertain this fact, but we do not now regret having spent this money as we confidently believe we have the best machine for the price on the market.

Yours fraternally,

W. H. BURK, K. R. & S.
Sheboygan Lodge, No. 81, K. P.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS.

(With Poem by LONGFELLOW.)

- 1 It was the schooner Hesperus.
- 2 Blue were her eyes as the fairy flax.
- 3 The skipper, he stood beside the helm.
- 4 Then up and spake an old sailor.
- 5 Last night the moon had a golden ring.
- 6 The snow fell hissing in the brine.
- 7 He wrapt her in his seaman's coat.
- 8 And bound her to the mast.
- 9 Like a sheeted ghost the vessel swept.
- 10 A fisherman stood aghast.

MAUD MULLER.

(With Poem by WHITTIER.)

- 1 Maud Muller on a Summer's day,
Raked the meadow sweet with hay.
- 2 And blushed as she gave it, looking down,
On her feet so bare, and her tattered gown.
- 3 The Judge looked back as he climbed the hill,
And saw Maud Muller standing still.
- 4 Oft when the wine in his glass was red,
He longed for the wayside well instead.
- 5 She wedded a man unlearned and poor.
And many children played around her door.
- 6 Alas for the maiden, alas for the Judge,
The rich repiner and household drudge.

THE COURTIN'.

(With Poem by JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.)

- 1 Zekle crep' up quite unbeknown,
An' peeked in thru' the winder.
- 2 An' there sot Huld' alone,
'ith no one nigh to hender.
- 3 She thought no vice had such a swing
Ez his'n in the choir.
- 4 He stood a spell on one foot first,
Then stood a spell on t'other.

- 5 That last word pricked him like a pin,
An'—Wal, he up and kist her.
- 6 Tell mother see how matters stood,
An' gin 'em both her blessin'.

CURFEW SHALL NOT RING TO-NIGHT.

(With Poem by ROSE HARTWICK THORPE.)

- 1 He with bowed head, sad and thoughtful, she with lips all cold and white.
- 2 "I've a lover in that prison."
- 3 "Bessie," calmly spoke the sexton.
- 4 She had listened while the Judges read.
- 5 She with quick steps bounded forward.
- 6 She has reached the topmost ladder.
- 7 Out she swung, far out, the city seemed a speck of light below.
- 8 Firmly on the dark old ladder.
- 9 At his feet she tells her story.
- 10 Kneeling on the turf beside him.

OLD KENTUCKY HOME.

- 1 "The sun shines bright in the old Kentucky home."
- 2 Chorus—"Weep no more my lady."
- 3 "They sing no more by the glimmer of the moon."
- 4 "The time have come when darkies have to part."
- 5 "A few more days and the trouble all will end."
- 6 "A few more days till we todder on the road."

A LEAP FOR LIFE.

(With Poem.)

- 1 "Old Ironsides at anchor lay."
- 2 "There stood the boy with dizzy brain."
- 3 "A rifle grasped
And aimed it at his son."
- 4 "That only chance your life can save;
Jump, jump, boy!"
- 5 "He sank—he rose—he lived—he moved—"
- 6 "His father drew in silent joy
Those wet arms around his neck."

FAUST.

- 5 Faust and Marguerite in the garden.
- 6 Marguerite spinning.
- 7 Marguerite sorrowing.
- 8 Death of Valentine.
- 9 Marguerite going to prison.
- 10 Marguerite in prison.

ABIDE WITH ME.

- 1 Abide with me, fast falls the eventide.
- 2 When other helpers fail, and comforts flee.
- 3 Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day.
- 4 Change and decay in all around I see.
- 5 I need Thy presence every passing hour.
- 6 Who, like Thyself, my guide and stay can be?
- 7 I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless.
- 8 Where is death's sting? where, grave, thy victory?
- 9 Hold Thou Thy cross before my closing eyes.
- 10 Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee.

FROM GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS.

- 1 From Greenland's Icy Mountains.
- 2 From India's coral strand.
- 3 From many an ancient river.
- 4 From many a palmy plain.
- 5 What though the spicy breezes
Blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle.
- 6 The Heathen in his blindness
Bows down to wood and stone.
- 7 Shall we, whose souls are lighted
With wisdom from on high.
- 8 Salvation, oh, salvation,
The joyful sound proclaim.
- 9 Till each remotest nation
Has learned Messiah's name.
- 10 Waft, waft, ye winds his story
And ou ye waters roll.
- 11 Till o'er your ransomed nature
The lamb for sinners slain.
- 12 Redeemer, King, Creator,
In bliss returns to reign.

GOLDEN BIBLE TEXTS.

(Illustrated.)

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger.

Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee.

Come unto me all ye that labor, and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

Enter not into the path of the wicked.

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.

If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink.

Lead me to the Rock that is higher than I.

Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

The Lord is thy keeper; the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand.

When thou passeth through the waters I will be with thee.

Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?
